American Troops Trap, Decimate Viet Red Force

SAIGON (AP) — A company of North Vietnamese troops moving toward Saigon from the southwest apparently mistook the silhouettes of American armored cars for the huts of peasants and walked into a death trap.

Forty-seven of the estimated

75 enemy soldiers died Tuesday night under a hail of machine-gun fire from the four armored personnel carriers, military spokesmen said.

No U.S. casualties were reported. The North Vietnamese were moving through open rice paddies about 18 miles southwest of Saigon, apparently confident that they could escape detection because there was no moon.

The enemy troops passed by a listening post several hundred yards from the main body of the mechanized infantry company from the U.S. 9th Infantry Division. The outpost radioed to the main unit that about 75 enemy troops were moving toward the armored personnel carriers.

"They apparently figured that since there was no moon they wouldn't be caught," said a 9th Division officer. "The silhouettes of the armored tanks apparently appeared to them in the darkness as huts."

"We let more than half of them pass by the first few armored tanks. Then when they were right in the center, all four of them opened fire."

Artillery and helicopter gunships joined the attack. The Americans also took two prisoners, one of whom said his company was trying to link up with the 308th North Vietnamese Battalion.

Meanwhile, enemy gunners fired four 100-pound rockets into Saigon's northern fringes, wounding 10 Vietnamese civilians and two soldiers. One of the rockets caused minor damage to the Newport bridge, on the main highway to the big military bases at Bien Hoa and Long Binh, but traffic was not affected.

It was the first time rockets had been fired into the Saigon area since March 30 and the seventh shelling of the capital district since the Communist command launched its spring offensive 6½ weeks ago. The U.S. Command reported about 10 other rocket and mortar attacks on allied bases during the night; it said casualties and damage were light.

Nearly 50 Soviet vessels were reported in the Mediterranean last year in a Russian show of strength.

"Seven ships of the Soviet Northern fleet entered the Mediterranean through the Strait of Gibraltar today. There has been no change in the readiness posture of the 6th Fleet," a spokesman said.

"Routine surveillance and training exercises continue," the spokesman added.

"The northern fleet units supplement some 30 navy units already present in the Mediterranean," the announcement said.

The other units had entered through the Turkish straits across the Bosphorus from the Black Sea. Another, a transport ship named "Mezen," crossed the Turkish Strait today.

Solons Want Curb On Planning Authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee has objected to giving broad authority to an Ohio Planning Office. The office would be created under an administration bill which received its first hearing before the committee Tuesday night.

The bill was defended by the top aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, John M. McElroy, who admitted that some of the language "is a little overpowering."

Under the bill, the governor would appoint a state planning director and would be able to keep a tight rein on programming in state departments.

The bill provides that the Ohio Planning Office could not "preclude or supercede the authority of any state department or agency."

But Sen. Robin T. Turner, R-14 Marion, stressed that he did not see how a department head serving at the governor's pleasure could come before the legislature "to buck" the proposal of a state planning director, also serving at the governor's pleasure.

Turner said he felt the bill "would silence state departments."

McElroy said he would not object if the committee amended the bill to make certain that a planning office would "not usurp the present planning authority" of departments.

He said the intent of the proposed Ohio Planning Office would be to coordinate planning in the state and that it could only make recommendations to the legislature.

In earlier action, the House received two bills to provide cash awards as well as hospitalization and medical benefits for the victims of violent crimes.

One bill introduced by House Minority Leader John C. McDonald, D-19 Newark, calls for the creation of a three-man crimes compensation commission to handle claims.

A bill introduced by Rep.

Anthony J. Russo, D-12 Cleveland would let the Sundry Claims Board distribute the compensation.

Under McDonald's bill, victims would be compensated for up to two-thirds of their lost earnings as a result of the crime committed against them.

McDonald's bill also provides up to $10,000 for the spouse of a murdered victim. The program would be funded by adding $5 to the costs in criminal cases.

Under Russo's bill, the amount of compensation would be determined by the Sundry Claims Board.

McDonald said he and Russo learned that each had similar

Limited Tax Reform Plan To Be Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly has decided to make only limited recommendations for tax reforms to the House Ways and Means Committee which plans to start work on the matter right after the Easter recess.

The administration is understood to have told the committee that it needed more time to study tax problems.

Congressional sources said Treasury Department officials plan to make their limited suggestions April 15, the day after Congress returns from its recess and also the day after the Ways and Means Committee concludes hearing public witnesses on tax reform.

Word of the administration's position comes after Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said the committee was prepared to receive Treasury recommendations but would not delay drafting of legislation if the administration chose not to testify promptly.

Speculation on Capitol Hill was that the Treasury might recommend tightening administration of the tax exemption granted foundations, but not taxation of their income as a number of witnesses and some members of the committee favor.

IC Railroad Is Crippled By Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Central Railroad halted most freight and passenger service on its 14-state system today, several hours after the United Transportation Union hit the line with a sudden strike.

An Illinois Central spokesman said supervisors were trying to keep up shipments of food and other perishables. However, he said, two passenger trains still in operation would be taken out of service after completing their runs.

The strike, which was called to back a demand relating to the size of crews, began at 10:30 p.m. CST Tuesday, according to a union spokesman.

M.S. Stuckey, general chairman of the union's I.C. system, said the union seeks to force the railroad to keep the number of men in its crews the same as that on other lines.

Pickets formed in front of various stations. Stuckey said Illinois Central has been trying to reduce the size of the crews, which generally include a conductor and either two trainmen or two yardmen.

He said 4,000 of Illinois Central's 19,000 employees are in the union. The strike will affect the entire system except a few lines covered by other contracts, Stuckey said.

Heart Institute Seeks Facts On Karp Death, Procedures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Heart Institute wants to know whether guidelines fixed for federally financed research were violated by the use of an artificial heart in an attempt to save the life of Haskell Karp.

Kept alive by the mechanical substitute for 65 hours, Karp, 47, of Skokie, Ill., then received a human heart from a Massachusetts woman but died Tuesday in a Houston hospital after developing pneumonia and kidney failure.

The Institute has spent about $30 million of government funds developing artificial circulation devices since 1965.

A spokesman said Dr. Michael DeBakey was being asked to say whether the heart used on Karp resulted from research carried on under a program at Baylor University under DeBakey's direction.

If so, said Dr. Theodore Cooper, Institute director, its use was subject to the federal guidelines.

The surgery on Karp was performed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley. In a copyright story, the New York Daily News quoted him as saying:

"I don't have to clear my operations through them. The operations I do are designed to save a person's life."

"This was the purpose of my effort with Mr. Karp. He would have been dead Friday afternoon if I hadn't operated. It was a desperate effort to save his life."

Meanwhile, Argentina-born Dr. Domingo Liotta, who devised the mechanical heart implanted by Cooley, said it was developed with funds from Cooley's Texas Heart Institute rather than federal money.

Dr. Cooper, the National Institute director, said Cooley would not be bound by the federal guidelines since he was not involved in the research project financed with government money, but added:

"I have asked Dr. DeBakey if the device used was made in his laboratory under grant support and, if that is the case, did they follow the regular guidelines prescribed."

Dr. Cooper said Dr. Liotta was an investigator in the DeBakey project and would be subject to the guidelines. The major guideline involved, Dr. Cooper said, goes this way:

"If experiments are going to be carried out on man, every effort must be made to insure the experiment is safely conceived, that the procedure is done with informed consent (of the patient), that scientific matters involved be reviewed by scientists and physicians at the hospital not involved themselves in the experiments."

Aiken Says Reds Would Cut Back If U.S. Moves First

WASHINGTON (AP) — George D. Aiken, the ranking minority member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, says North Vietnam probably would withdraw 3,000 troops from the South if 50,000 American soldiers are brought home. The Vermont Republican said in an interview an American withdrawal of that size is entirely probable this year.

Although no top official of the Nixon administration will talk publicly about unilateral troop withdrawal, there is plenty of behind-the-scenes discussion—some of it about returning a division force of up to 50,000 men.

The absence of a face-saving formula is the biggest barrier to disengagement of North Vietnamese and American troops and eventual settlement of the war, Aiken said.

"I have a feeling this is a crucial year for the war," he said. "If the North Vietnamese withdraw then the war can be settled on the basis of an election in the South."

"Nobody regards it as a South Vietnamese war anymore and that's what is blocking a settlement," he said.

Although he said a withdrawal "is entirely possible and probable," he cautioned:

"We know that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese will fight on as long as they think there is a chance of our being discouraged."

Aiken, an early critic of U.S. war policies, was asked how President Nixon has altered the Vietnam policies inherited from Lyndon B. Johnson.

Nixon, who had spent two days in Anchorage after being appointed chairman of the federal field committee for development planning in Alaska, said there Tuesday his decision not to accept the post "has nothing to do with the position here, the land or the people" and added:

"It doesn't seem it's going to work out. We have a problem that has arisen at home."

Nixon was appointed to the job last Friday. In Washington, the Commerce Department said Nixon "informed the Secretary of Commerce that after discussing the matter further with his wife he had decided to decline the appointment."

Nixon, a former Navy pilot, a geologist and on leave from Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co., Seattle, where he is a commercial staff supervisor, would have headed a committee to coordinate federal and state economic planning for Alaska.

His home is in Lynnwood, 20 miles north of Seattle. He and his wife, Gav, who is a junior high school mathematics teacher, have two daughters, Amy, 10, and Beth, 8.

In last year's presidential campaign, Nixon managed mail operations for the Nixon-for-President Committee in New York.

Cincinnati Policeman Cited For Bravery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati policeman James Pragar was cited for bravery at a police appreciation banquet Tuesday night.

Pragar was off duty on July 29, 1968, when he thwarted an armed robbery at the Seventh Ward Loan and Building Co. He was in the loan office with his three children when a holdup man walked in. The gunman opened fire when Pragar attempted to arrest him and was killed by the officer's return fire.

Vietnam Policy Meeting Held

Bunker Prepares Return To Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called a second straight meeting of the National Security Council today as he prepared to send his ambassador to Saigon back to the war zone after two weeks of high-level discussions.

Purpose of Nixon's meeting with his top diplomatic, military and intelligence aides was not announced, but sessions of the council on successive days is somewhat unusual.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said before Tuesday's session that the rapid-fire meetings would consider two topics. He declined to say what they were.

Nixon met with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, after Tuesday's session. Bunker will be returning to his post probably by the end of the week or early next week after a top-level review of Vietnam policy that began in California March 23.

Despite indications that Vietnam was one of the subjects before the council, the two meetings also came during a period of unusual foreign affairs activity in the capital.

Nixon met Tuesday with Jordan's King Hussein, a pro-Western Arab leader who fears an other outbreak of war in the tense Middle East.

Hussein, in the United States for three days of talks, said on arrival he had no plan to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute, but did have some "ideas to put forth."

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization also began arriving today for the opening Thursday of a two-day conference.

Regents Bill Is Introduced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill introduced in the House Tuesday night would give broader powers to the Ohio Board of Regents in its control of state universities.

Reps. Mark C. Shinnerer R-49 Lakewood and Fred B. Hadley R-1 Pioneer, introduced the measure. Shinnerer said it is a substitute for his earlier bill which would have required university professors to work at least a 40-hour week, including 15 hours in classroom instruction.

Currently the regents serve only in an advisory capacity to the universities. The latest proposal would permit regents to set working hours and salary schedules for university professors; set salary guidelines for administrative personnel at state university; fix enrollment limitations for main campus and each university, and form standards in hiring administrative personnel.

The proposal has been presented to the House Education Committee.

Melted Snow Causes Rapid Rise In Rivers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rivers fed with melting snows have flooded areas of three Upper Midwest states, taking the life of a second Minnesotan and forcing hundreds to evacuate their homes.

Students joined other volunteers at Sioux City, Iowa, to rush construction of a sandbag dike for protection against the rising Big Sioux River.

This was the flood situation today in Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota:

—Minnesota: The state counted its second flood drowning victim Tuesday when Bernard Knudson, 60, of Kinbrae, fell into Heron Lake while poling ice from the supports of a railroad trestle. Earlier, Thomas Bieraugel, 18, of New Ulm, drowned while canoeing on a flooded river.

Many highways in the state were covered with water and some were closed. Officials evacuated 35 families at Dawson on Lac Qui Parle River where water was 7½ feet above flood stage; 14 families were taken out of Windom and another 200 were expected to leave; 7 were evacuated at Jackson.

—Iowa: 350 persons were evacuated at Cherokee on the Little Sioux River and another 6 families at Akron. The Big Sioux River was expected to crest at a record 15 feet above flood stage at Sioux City on Thursday.

—South Dakota: The weather bureau reported a record flood crest swirling down the Big Sioux in the southeastern part of the state. Most of the town of Renner and parts of Dell Rapids were evacuated Tuesday night.

In Wisconsin the flood threat was eased as snow in the Northwoods melted slower than anticipated. Levee and sandbag work continued along the Mississippi.

Man Jailed After Driver Was Slain

EATON, Ohio (AP) — One of two Richmond, Ind., men who allegedly robbed a Hamilton store late Monday and then exchanged gunfire with police during a two-county chase was in jail in this Preble County community today.

The other man was killed by a policeman's bullet during the highway chase.

Albert Ray Green, 31, was charged with shooting with intent to kill by Preble County police. Hamilton police lodged a charge of armed robbery against him.

The dead man was identified as Kenneth Crowder, 32, driver of the car occupied by the two.

Preble County Deputy Charles Leinbach said he exchanged several shots with the pair on U.S. 35, just east of Eaton, early Tuesday morning before one of his bullets struck Crowder in the head.

Green said he grabbed the wheel after Crowder slumped over it and brought the car to a stop.

Alter Mariner Course Toward Planet Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 7 chased on toward Mars today after a short rocket burst altered its course as planned by some 14,500 miles.

Scientists fired its engine for 7.7 seconds Tuesday in a move designed to bring Mariner 7 within 2,000 miles of Mars. When the rocket-firing signal was given at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, the craft was in its 12th day of flight and 2.5 million miles from earth.

As now planned, Mariner 7 will come its closest to Mars on Aug. 4.

Ahead, 31 days further into space, is Mariner 6, an identical craft scheduled to reach Mars on July 30. The two space vehicles will take photographs of the red planet, measure temperature and the composition of the atmosphere.

U.S. Concession At Arms Talks Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate authority on atomic affairs says the Nixon administration should not have backed away from demands for on-the-scene inspection rights in a treaty limiting the production of nuclear material without first consulting Congress.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Washington Democrat who heads the Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee on nuclear weapons, called the decision a "fundamental change in position that goes to the heart of the whole arms control problem."

The decision, revealed in Geneva Tuesday, drew measured support from two Republicans. Sens. Milton R. Young of South Dakota and George D. Aiken of Vermont said they thought technical advances have made ground inspection less necessary.

Adrian S. Fisher, U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the United States is willing to let the International Atomic Energy Agency police any agreement to halt the production of enriched uranium and plutonium, the core material of atomic weapons.

But Fisher made it clear that in another important disarmament question—a ban on underground nuclear tests—the United States is determined to stick to its insistence for on-site inspections.

For 13 years, the United States insisted that U.S. and Soviet representatives inspect each other's production sites after manufacturing is cut back. The Soviets have balked, maintaining such an arrangement would be an invitation to espionage.

Jackson said it was unfortunate the administration decision was not discussed with appropriate congressional committees.

"Perhaps inspection procedures by a third party can be worked out satisfactorily, but I don't think we can verify that the agreement is being carried out by national intelligence inspection alone."

By this he said he meant through satellite pictures and other intelligence sources.

The United States accepted the international agency's enforcement of inspection in the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. But the dropping of on-the-spot checks for a treaty halting production of nuclear weapons materials seems likely to encounter significant opposition in the Senate, which must ratify all treaties.

Young, a member of the select committee which oversees the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he believes this country could keep tabs on whether Soviet weapons installations are increasing.

He said high resolution pictures from satellites "can go quite a ways in telling us what is going on over there."

Soviets Send 7 More Ships Into 'Med'

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Seven Soviet navy units entered the Mediterranean today through the strait of Gibraltar, the U.S. 6th Fleet headquarters announced.

Nearly 50 Soviet vessels were reported in the Mediterranean last year in a Russian show of strength.

Solons Want Curb On Planning Authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee has objected to giving broad authority to an Ohio Planning Office. The office would be created under an administration bill which received its first hearing before the committee Tuesday night.

top aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, John M. McElroy, who admitted that some of the language "is a little overpowering."

The bill provides that the Ohio Planning Office could not "preclude or supercede the authority of any state department or agency."

But Sen. Robin T. Turner, R-14 Marion, stressed that he did not see how a department head serving at the governor's pleasure could come before the legislature "to buck" the proposal of a state planning director, also serving at the governor's pleasure.

Turner said he felt the bill "would silence state departments."

McElroy said he would not object if the committee amended the bill to make certain that a planning office would "not usurp the present planning authority" of departments.

He said the intent of the proposed Ohio Planning Office would be to coordinate planning in the state and that it could only make recommendations to the legislature.

In earlier action, the House received two bills to provide cash awards as well as hospitalization and medical benefits for the victims of violent crimes.

One bill introduced by House Minority Leader John C. McDonald, D-19 Newark, calls for the creation of a three-man crimes compensation commission to handle claims.

A bill introduced by Rep.

Anthony J. Russo, D-12 Cleveland would let the Sundry Claims Board distribute the compensation.

Under McDonald's bill, victims would be compensated for up to two-thirds of their lost earnings as a result of the crime committed against them.

McDonald's bill also provides up to $10,000 for the spouse of a murdered victim. The program would be funded by adding $5 to the costs in criminal cases.

Under Russo's bill, the amount of compensation would be determined by the Sundry Claims Board.

McDonald said he and Russo learned that each had similar

Limited Tax Reform Plan To Be Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly has decided to make only limited recommendations for tax reforms to the House Ways and Means Committee which plans to start work on the matter right after the Easter recess.

The administration is understood to have told the committee that it needed more time to study tax problems.

Congressional sources said Treasury Department officials plan to make their limited suggestions April 15, the day after Congress returns from its recess and also the day after the Ways and Means Committee concludes hearing public witnesses on tax reform.

Word of the administration's position comes after Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said the committee was prepared to receive Treasury recommendations but would not delay drafting of legislation if the administration chose not to testify promptly.

Speculation on Capitol Hill was that the Treasury might recommend tightening administration of the tax exemption granted foundations, but not taxation of their income as a number of witnesses and some members of the committee favor.

IC Railroad Is Crippled By Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Central Railroad halted most freight and passenger service on its 14-state system today, several hours after the United Transportation Union hit the line with a sudden strike.

An Illinois Central spokesman said supervisors were trying to keep up shipments of food and other perishables. However, he said, two passenger trains still in operation would be taken out of service after completing their runs.

The strike, which was called to back a demand relating to the size of crews, began at 10:30 p.m. CST Tuesday, according to a union spokesman.

M.S. Stuckey, general chairman of the union's I.C. system, said the union seeks to force the railroad to keep the number of men in its crews the same as that on other lines.

Pickets formed in front of various stations.

Stuckey said Illinois Central has been trying to reduce the size of the crews, which generally include a conductor and either two trainmen or two yardmen.

He said 4,000 of Illinois Central's 19,000 employees are in the union.

The strike will affect the entire system except a few lines covered by other contracts, Stuckey said.

Easter Traffic Deaths Break Ohio Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high traffic death toll over the Easter weekend set several new highs for the year, the Department of Highway Safety said today.

The toll of 31 deaths was a new weekend high for the year—13 more than the 18 killed during the comparable period last year.

Deaths of five pedestrians, a new weekend high for 1969, and two motorcycle rider deaths helped swell Ohio's fatality list.

Only one of the motorists killed in accidents investigated by the Highway Patrol wore safety belts. Safety Director Warren C. Nelson said "the tragic Easter weekend highway death toll might have been nearer 20 if all motorists involved had worn safety belts."

But Fisher made it clear that in another important disarmament question—a ban on underground nuclear tests—the United States is determined to stick to its insistence for on-site inspections.

For 13 years, the United States insisted that U.S. and Soviet representatives inspect each other's production sites after manufacturing is cut back. The Soviets have balked, maintaining such an arrangement would be an invitation to espionage.

Adrian S. Fisher, U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the United States is willing to let the International Atomic Energy Agency police any agreement to halt the production of enriched uranium and plutonium, the core material of atomic weapons.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Washington Democrat who heads the Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee on nuclear weapons, called the decision a "fundamental change in position that goes to the heart of the whole arms control problem."

U.S. Concession At Arms Talks Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate authority on atomic affairs says the Nixon administration should not have backed away from demands for on-the-scene inspection rights in a treaty limiting the production of nuclear material without first consulting Congress.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Washington Democrat who heads the Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee on nuclear weapons, called the decision a "fundamental change in position that goes to the heart of the whole arms control problem."

The decision, revealed in Geneva Tuesday, drew measured support from two Republicans. Sens. Milton R. Young of South Dakota and George D. Aiken of Vermont said they thought technical advances have made ground inspection less necessary.

Adrian S. Fisher, U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the United States is willing to let the International Atomic Energy Agency police any agreement to halt the production of enriched uranium and plutonium, the core material of atomic weapons.

was not discussed with appropriate congressional committees.

"Perhaps inspection procedures by a third party can be worked out satisfactorily, but I don't think we can verify that the agreement is being carried out by national intelligence inspection alone."

By this he said he meant through satellite pictures and other intelligence sources.

The United States accepted the international agency's enforcement of inspection in the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. But the dropping of on-the-spot checks for a treaty halting production of nuclear weapons materials seems likely to encounter significant opposition in the Senate, which must ratify all treaties.

Young, a member of the select committee which oversees the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he believes this country could keep tabs on whether Soviet weapons installations are increasing.

He said high resolution pictures from satellites "can go quite a ways in telling us what is going on over there."

Melted Snow Causes Rapid Rise In Rivers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rivers fed with melting snows have flooded areas of three Upper Midwest states, taking the life of a second Minnesotan and forcing hundreds to evacuate their homes.

Students joined other volunteers at Sioux City, Iowa, to rush construction of a sandbag dike for protection against the rising Big Sioux River.

This was the flood situation today in Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota:

—Minnesota: The state counted its second flood drowning victim Tuesday when Bernard Knudson, 60, of Kimbrae, fell into Heron Lake while poling ice from the supports of a railroad trestle. Earlier, Thomas Bieraugel, 18, of New Ulm, drowned while canoeing on a flooded river.

Many highways in the state were covered with water and some were closed. Officials evacuated 35 families at Dawson on Lac Qui Parle River where water was 7½ feet above flood stage; 14 families were taken out of Windom and another 200 were expected to leave; 7 were evacuated at Jackson.

—Iowa: 350 persons were evacuated at Cherokee on the Little Sioux River and another 6 families at Akron. The Big Sioux River was expected to crest at a record 15 feet above flood stage at Sioux City on Thursday.

—South Dakota: The weather bureau reported a record flood crest swirling down the Big Sioux in the southeastern part of the state. Most of the towns of Remmer and parts of Dell Rapids were evacuated Tuesday night.

In Wisconsin the flood threat was eased as snow in the Northwoods melted slower than anticipated. Levee and sandbag work continued along the Mississippi.

Man Jailed After Driver Was Slain

EATON, Ohio (AP) — One of two Richmond, Ind., men who allegedly robbed a Hamilton store late Monday and then exchanged gunfire with police during a two-county chase was in jail in this Preble County community today.

The other man was killed by a policeman's bullet during the highway chase.

Albert Ray Green, 31, was charged with shooting with intent to kill by Preble County police. Hamilton police lodged a charge of armed robbery against him.

The dead man was identified as Kenneth Crowder, 32, driver of the car occupied by the two. Preble County Deputy Charles Leinbach said he exchanged several shots with the pair on U.S. 35, just east of Eaton, early Tuesday morning before one of his bullets struck Crowder in the head.

Green said he grabbed the wheel after Crowder slumped over it and brought the car to a stop.

Alter Mariner Course Toward Planet Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 7 chased on toward Mars today after a short rocket burst altered its course as planned by some 14,500 miles.

Scientists fired its engine for 7.7 seconds Tuesday in a move designed to bring Mariner 7 within 2,000 miles of Mars. When the rocket-firing signal was given at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, the craft was in its 12th day of flight and 2.5 million miles from earth.

As now planned, Mariner 7 will come its closest to Mars on Aug. 4.

Ahead, 31 days further into space, is Mariner 6, an identical craft scheduled to reach Mars on July 30. The two space vehicles will take photographs of the red planet, measure temperature and the composition of the atmosphere.

Vietnam Policy Meeting Held

Bunker Prepares Return To Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called a second straight meeting of the National Security Council today as he prepared to send his ambassador to Saigon back to the war zone after two weeks of high-level discussions.

Purpose of Nixon's meeting with his top diplomatic, military and intelligence aides was not announced, but sessions of the council on successive days is somewhat unusual.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said before Tuesday's session that the rapid-fire meetings would consider two topics. He declined to say what they were.

Nixon met with Ellsworth Bunker, U. S. ambassador to Saigon, after Tuesday's session. Bunker will be returning to his post probably by the end of the week or early next week after a top-level review of Vietnam policy that began in California March 23.

Despite indications that Vietnam was one of the subjects before the council, the two meetings also came during a period of unusual foreign affairs activity in the capital.

Nixon met Tuesday with Jordan's King Hussein, a pro-Western Arab leader who fears another outbreak of war in the tense Middle East.

Hussein, in the United States for three days of talks, said on arrival he had no plan to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute, but did have some "ideas to put forth."

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization also began arriving today for the opening Thursday of a two-day conference.

Regents Bill Is Introduced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill introduced in the House Tuesday night would give broader powers to the Ohio Board of Regents in its control of state universities.

Reps. Mark C. Shinnerer, R-49 Lakewood, and Fred B. Hadley, R-1 Pioneer, introduced the measure. Shinnerer said it is a substitute for his earlier bill which would have required university professors to work at least a 40-hour week, including 15 hours in classroom instruction.

Currently the regents serve only in an advisory capacity to the universities. The latest proposal would permit regents to set working hours and salary schedules for university professors; set salary guidelines for administrative personnel at state university; fix enrollment limitations for main campus and each university, and form standards in hiring administrative personnel.

The proposal has been presented to the House Education Committee.

Russo also introduced a bill to reimburse acquitted felony defendant for all "out-of-pocket" financial losses he suffered in defending himself against the charges.

In other action, the House passed 87-2 a bill to reduce from 55 per cent to a simple majority the vote needed to approve a bond issue for mentally retarded facilities.

Reps. George V. Voinovich, R-53 Cleveland, and Gertrude E. Polcar, R-51 Parma, voted against the measure.

Voinovich said he opposed the bill because people are getting the idea the legislature's main purpose is to approve issues that make tax levies and bond issues easier to pass.

City School Board Renews Contracts For 1969-70

Renewal of contracts and establishment of policies for the coming school year occupied most of the time of the Circleville Board of Education during a short regular session Tuesday night.

Salaries for teachers and non-certificated personnel were discussed. Salary scale for teachers was approved by the board. A meeting will be held with bus drivers at a later time to discuss salary increases.

Salaries for substitute teachers were set by the board at $19 per day beginning Sept., 1969.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The rental equipment business, which may be the most vigorously growing of all service industries, is still essentially one of small, dynamic businessmen. By nearly fulfilling their boast of being able to rent anything under the sun — a giraffe was rented in California a few weeks ago — these small-business men are building an industry estimated to gross $1 billion a year.

The tendency of more and more Americans to rent rather than buy gained a foothold in the West shortly after World War II as part of the do-it-yourself movement.

The first stores mainly were mom-and-pop operations, with father renting the hardware items and mother attending to the fancier activities, such as renting glassware and coffee urns and candelabra for parties.

There has been no letup in the growth rate, estimated by industry officials at between 15 and 20 per cent a year. But only in the past few years has it been growing fast in the Northeast.

There are now estimated to be about 10,000 rental outlets throughout the country, the great majority of them owner-operated. Not only is it an industry of small businesses, but it may continue to be so for years more.

Hertz, the big automotive and construction equipment renter, has withdrawn from the general renting field. Sears, Roebuck tried it and also withdrew. The biggest chain, Abbey Rents, numbers more than 50 or so outlets nationwide.

Franchisers are more active than large chains, with United Rent-All of Los Angeles, and A to Z Rental of Chicago, claiming well over 300 members each. But even franchise holders are small-business men.

"The higher the inventory the less the turnover," says Bill Ristow, who operates a flourishing business in Des Plaines, Ill. "The bigger the business the harder it is to turn over," he says in explaining the small-business man's success.

Some small rental companies claim to turn over their inventories four or five times a year. But larger ones might rent out their entire inventory, on average, only once in a year. There is strength in smallness.

The American Rental Association of Moline, Ill., whose membership includes 100 manufacturers of rental equipment and 1,400 outlets, estimates that $50,000 of equipment is needed to begin a community rental operation.

Franchisers, however, come up with lower figures, and claim also that they can improve prospects for success by their wholesale buying power and by helping to choose location and inventory, by assisting with advertising, and by teaching techniques.

A to Z Rental has three packages for prospective members of its franchise. The lowest in cost, a $35,000 plan, requires the purchaser to put down $8,750. The $50,000 plan requires $12,500 cash, the $75,000 plan $18,750.

United Rent-All, which claims that none of its outlets has ever failed, requires $15,000 down, and a passing grade on credit and aptitude tests. It asks for an immediate $1,000 deposit as evidence of good faith.

The down payment to United goes toward reducing the $18,000 franchise fee, buying the opening inventory and providing working capital for the new venture.

One of the big headaches, if not a threat to success, is conversions. A conversion occurs when the renter of an item fails to return it. After a period of time it has the same effect on the businessman as a theft.

"It's a genuine peril of the business," says Ristow, who has known of an individual who rented a truck at one location and a construction backhoe at another, and then disappeared with both.

A conversion, however, is not a theft; it is not a criminal act; it is a civil offense, a contract violation. Frequently when apprehended, the offenders state: "I was still using it, intended to return it and am willing to pay."

It's difficult to prevent such incidents and much harder to prove them criminal. Careless rental companies can be hurt badly. Careful ones will continue to thrive.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

A HAYSEED approached a vending machine, inserted a quarter, and pressed the button labeled "Coffee, double cream, and sugar." No cup appeared, but two nozzles began functioning, one pouring coffee, the other cream. After the proper amounts had gone down the drain where the cup should have been, the machine stopped pouring.

"Now that's real automation," nodded the hayseed admiringly. "This thing even DRINKS for you!"

A faded professor of political science, bound for Tahiti to get away from it all, was pacing the deck with a new shipboard acquaintance. He announced confidently, "You live in the city governed by as mean, dirty, and corrupt a ring of thieves as there is in all the U.S.A." "How do you know where I live?" demanded the astonished new acquaintance. The professor puffed placidly on his pipe and answered, "I don't!"

Michael Harris tells of one Sunday evening when Ed Sullivan took a lion tamer aside just before his TV show went on the air and said, "Look, the show's running too long and we've got to cut your act down from six minutes to three. Do you understand?"

"Yeah, I understand," nodded the lion tamer, "but how am I going to explain it to the lion?"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Physicians are often confused over why some patients fail to follow instructions or to continue them for the length of time they are prescribed. Most of us in practice have found that anxiety plays such an important role in the doctor's office that patients often hear but do not properly understand those instructions. For this we recommend that they be written down once they are clear. There is no shame in doing this since it spares both the doctor and the patient a great deal of time and the need to repeat instructions.

I have been impressed by the fact that patients who understand their problem exactly are freed of the mystique of medicine and respond better to medication and treatment than those who are in a constant state of confusion.

A specific case may point out how important it is for a patient to understand the anatomy and physiology of his illness. A person with a hiatus hernia follows a rigid diet and takes anti-spasm medicines when he has in his mind's eye a picture of the condition that exists at the junction of the esophagus and the stomach. The reason for small feelings at regular intervals becomes clear and he then adheres to the regime set for him by his doctor. So it must be with disorders of the blood, the liver, the gallbladder, the lungs and the heart. A simple diagram which does not overwhelm the patient with medical terms, but clarifies the picture, is of great help to both the patient and the doctor.

Adults in their enthusiasm and devotion for little children sometimes forget that the three-year-old is very fragile and cannot be swung too energetically without doing some harm. Recently a young father lifted his little girl somewhat more roughly than normally and dislocated one of the long bones of the hand at the junction of the elbow. The pain was so severe that I felt an X-ray and consultation with a bone specialist was worthwhile. In this case the damage was slight but had it been overlooked it might have resulted in a chronic limitation of motion as the child grew older.

The temptation is great to horseplay with youngsters, especially the little boys who are thought to be "fullbacks in training" even at birth.

Should there be an injury, it is wise to lean in the direction

Today is Wednesday, April 9, the 99th day of 1969. There are 266 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1865, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House, Va. On this date:

In 1682, the French explorer, La Salle, reached the Gulf of Mexico after traveling the length of the Mississippi River.

In 1939, the Negro singer, Marian Anderson, gave a recital at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington after being barred from Constitution Hall.

In 1940, Germany invaded Norway and Denmark.

Ten years ago — There was a revolt in northern Iraq.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson won a 15-day postponement of a national railroad strike, and new mediation was scheduled.

One year ago — The slain civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, was buried in Atlanta.

Nixon And Eisenhower

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

There is a curious discrepancy in the way historians judge our history. I have lived through two pleasant decades — the Twenties and the Fifties. By comparison the Thirties, Forties and Sixties have been disasters. But Calvin Coolidge, the "Puritan in Babylon," meets only derision from historians for having turned the White House of his day into "a peaceful dormitory." As for Ike Eisenhower, he was generally listed among our "do-nothing Presidents" before his long series of illnesses evoked everybody's sympathy and so dulled the spirit of criticism.

Of Coolidge it might fairly be said that he should have spoken out against the excessive "brokers' loans" in Wall Street of the late Twenties. But Eisenhower deserves a completely positive rating for having fostered and protected the tranquility of the Fifties. He carried off his unique contribution to our history not by any remarkable legislative program, but by his sheer force of character in conducting our foreign policy.

Whether his Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' threat of "massive retaliation" was bluff or not, the point is that, with Ike in the White House, no foreign chancellor dared put us to the test. Ike's veiled threat, conveyed to the Red Chinese through our embassy in India, to use drastic means to end the troubles in Korea, even hinting at possible use of atomic weapons in a strike at Manchuria, turned the peace talks at Panmunjom into something less than a fiasco. (They did not give us a "victory," but at least they did not end in defeat.) The Red Chinese didn't care to risk the righteous anger of the old soldier who had made the Germans tremble at Omaha Beach.

President Nixon, who worked loyally for Ike for eight years in the "splendid misery" of the Vice Presidency, surely knows the source of our strength in the Fifties. He, too, has hinted that he knows a way to keep enemy "peace" negotiators from dawdling. This, unless he has surrendered in mind as an option, which is truly unthinkable, can mean only one thing: a significant promise of the sort of "action" that Eisenhower threatened sixteen years ago.

Richard Nixon never commanded vast armies, and it would be understandable if both Ho Chi Minh and the Kremlin wrote him off as a "politician" who lives only to win re-election. At any rate, he is being put to the test.

I don't see Nixon as a "mere politician." But even assuming the worst, no U.S. President could ever hope to win re-election by negotiating a surrender in a war. Perhaps Nixon is destined to be a one-term President no matter what he does. But, perversely, not even the doves would reward him for an ignominious desertion of an ally. They would cheer him for the moment — and, in 1972, proceed to deliver the dove vote to McGovern, McCarthy or Ted Kennedy.

Meanwhile, the basic Republican strength that is now looking for an honorable end of the war would dribble away. There would be more "Wallaceism" extending into the upper reaches of the South, and demoralization everywhere.

Whether President Nixon is motivated by "politics" or not, he just has thought long and hard during the funeral week about the source of Eisenhower's strength. Thus he has no recourse but to take the bit between his teeth. He could do this by making two seemingly contradictory moves. One would be to threaten to bomb the dikes and blockade the ports of North Vietnam. The second would be to announce a policy of sending only volunteer soldiers as replacements to South Vietnam. The latter move, as suggested to Nixon by Professor Milton Friedman and other thoughtful advisers, is entirely feasible at higher rates for soldier's pay. It would also achieve the miracle of claming down the college campuses, which are the real strength of Ho Chi Minh in America.

State Won't Push Death Penalty In Sirhan Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state will not press for the death penalty for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy — but will suggest it would be appropriate.

"We won't, in so many words, say to the jury 'bring in the death penalty,'" said Lynn D. Compton, chief deputy district attorney. "It's rarely productive in our opinion to stand up and insist or demand that a jury return a certain verdict in this kind of case."

"We're going to suggest to them that it would be an appropriate penalty if they think so and leave it wide open to their discretion."

The last witness in the three-month-old trial, psychologist Leonard Olinger, was on the stand when court adjourned Monday. His cross-examination was expected to end by noon today and attorneys said they would spend the rest of the day discussing jury instructions with Judge Herbert V. Walker.

Final arguments, expected to take three or more days, will precede the judge's instructions to the jury of seven men, five women.

Fast Train Starts Runs

BOSTON (AP) — Penn Central began regular passenger service Tuesday of its long-awaited jet-powered TurboTrain to run between New York and Boston.

The railroad hopes eventually to cut travel time between the two cities to 2½ hours. It now takes about 4 hours.

U.S. secretary of transportation John A. Volpe, whose department is subsidizing the TurboTrain in a two-year experimental operation, said the success of the program rests now with the operating railroads.

"Whether it is successful depends on whether the Penn Central wants to make it successful, and whether the public is informed about it," Volpe told a news conference on the eve of the inaugural run.

"If the railroad people make passengers feel welcome, if they don't make them wait an hour for a ticket, it will be successful," he said.

Railroad officials said a faster travel time on the 217-mile run would come when problems of track alignments and grade crossings are solved.

W. J. Burns, a 25-year associate of the L. M. Butch Jewelry Store, purchased the store from Mr. Butch who was retiring because of poor health. The store had been in its present location on W. Main St. since 1881.

New regulations by directors of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society stated that all eating establishments in the city would be requested to serve only one kind of pie — namely pumpkin — during the annual festival. Other regulations established were that the sale of space to eating stands would be limited to residents and organizations of Circleville and Pickaway County. Contracts would include the provision that the operators of eating stands purchase Circleville products.

Winners of the kite tournament sponsored by WPA recreation project were Mark Crawford, first kite up; Ray Craft of Ashville, highest kite; Charles Fletcher, most beautiful; William Borning, most unique; Jacob Justus, largest.

Special police were placed on duty on the site of new construction work at the Ralston Furina plant, S. Court St. after difficulties arose between officials of the Crites Oil Co. and the milling firm.

Rev. W. E. Campbell, 61, pastor of Laurelville United Brethren Church, died in Logan Hospital.

Following the annual custom, the Pickaway Country Club golf course was officially opened Easter Sunday.

Funds remaining in the Pickaway County War Chest, were distributed to county veterans' organizations to be used for relief purposes. The War Chest Board was dissolving operations begun in 1920.

According To Boyle

By JOE WING (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — A perfect stranger wrote from North Carolina the other day to make this modest proposal:

"Send me a certified check for $100,000 and you can have complete rights to my column. This is a chance in a lifetime."

It isn't often that such a straightforward proposition pops up in a letter on my desk, but I felt fairly confident nevertheless in pigeonholing it. For one thing, the AP has never authorized me to write certified checks for $100,000. For another I had a feeling that the gentleman had overestimated the literary value of his column.

An editor cannot always be that smug about his own decisions. He finds himself making the wrong ones too often. And he has plenty of chances to go wrong because a third of the adult residents of these United States have secret or overt hankerings to be newspaper columnists. That's my own estimate based on the fact that not a day passes but one or more hopeful columnist bundles up his samples and ships them off to the feature desk of The AP.

What an editor always hopes for, of course, is a column so well written, so original, so entertaining or so informative that he does indeed find it the chance of a lifetime.

But what he sees mostly are scripts intended to prove that the aspirants are funnier than Art Buchwald or Russell Baker, more profound than David Lawrence or James Reston, or with more human insight than Hal Boyle or Jimmy Breslin.

Doctors, dentists, lawyers and insurance experts want to write columns about their specialties. There are homespun psychiatrists who are sure they can make Dear Abby or Doctor Brothers take to cover, financial experts who would love to give Mary Feeley or Sylvia Porter a run for their money.

Astrologers, drama critics, book reviewers, cooks, teachers, fashion experts, beauticians and health faddists all want to get into the act.

After all, wouldn't you yourself like to try your hand at it? A columnist must live the life of Riley, writing two or six pieces a week and spending the rest of his time in night clubs, or just lying around home, thinking.

That's what I thought until Hal Boyle was absent one day and I volunteered in my ignorance to write some substitute columns for him.

One lap around the course and I was winded. Three more and I had just about had it. Finally I decided that I might be able to turn out once a month a piece the wire editor would let by if Boyle were definitely, positively unable to report for work.

The mere thought of a writer like Boyle producing five columns a week for 22 years brings on that old seaside feeling. So how come all you people want to write columns?

Student Activism Turns To Fund Raising For College

The Circleville Herald, Wed. April 9, 1969
Circleville, Ohio 5

By WOOD SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Student activism at Kentucky Wesleyan College has a different twist—a commitment to raise one-third of the $1 million the college needs to build a library.

The college president, Dr. Harold P. Hamilton, says it started when the 22-year-old president of the student body "came into my office one day last November and said he was seeking a project for the student government."

Hamilton said he "pointed to the drawings of the library and said, 'How about that?'" Burleigh James Matthews of Indianapolis, Ind. an A-minus pre-med major, took it from there.

About 75 students are committed to the active effort, organized under student "captains" assigned to lead 12 teams on the "church-dinner trail" around the state and, finally, to conduct a door-to-door campaign.

For the rest of the money, the college is counting on a $300,000 grant from the federal government next July and a campaign to raise $340,000 from alumni and trustee contributions and special advance gifts.

Hamilton says plans for a library to serve the college's 1,185 students had been tabled until Matthews organized the student project.

Until then, he says, the trustees had considered raising $1 million impossible because the United Methodist Church, with which the college is affiliated, has more urgent charitable responsibilities and the college could not reasonably appeal solely to Owensboro's 52,000 residents.

A large room at one end of a combined administration-classroom building has housed the college's library materials since it moved from Winchester, Ky., in 1951.

Hamilton says the students' attitude has "made a new man out of me—it really rejuvenated me. There is a genius about these kids."

He has promised to have the name of every student involved engraved on a plaque to be placed on the wall of the library.

Matthews calls the project the Wesleyan Idea—"the theory that if you offer college students programs as meaningful in a constructive area as are being offered in a destructive one, the students will accept the constructive challenge."

Quick Action Saves Library

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—Quick action by a neighbor, police and firemen probably saved Kenton's new $250,000 Hardin County District Library.

The neighbor, Ted Titus, heard mysterious noises coming from the building Monday night. He called police.

Sgt. Charles Smith investigated, found the glass door to the building extremely hot, entered the building, and turned off a master electrical switch.

When firemen arrived they said the temperature inside was nearly 300 degrees.

Court Rejects Lancaster Man's Appeal For Writ

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A writ of habeas corpus has been denied a Fairfield County man who contended his rights were violated when he was convicted of slaying a Lancaster widow in 1964.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary Monday turned down the request by John Lincoln Carder, now serving two concurrent life sentences in Ohio Penitentiary for the murder of Vanetta Brucker. Carder's attorneys contended that his Constitutional rights were denied during his arrest and trial in 1964 when he was a 16-year-old high school junior. Carder now is 21.

The conviction was upheld by the 5th District Court of Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court. The victim of the slaying, who operated a store and teen-age recreation center in Lancaster, was killed with an ice pick and meat cleaver.

Solons Approve Window Washing

Pickaway County Commissioners approved a contract with the AA Cleaning Co. of Chillicothe to wash the windows at the courthouse and the library.

The firm submitted a bid of $175 to clean the windows on the outside.

Commissioners also approved four water taps in the Earnhart Hill Water District. A request by Judge Guy Cline for $75 to attend the Ohio Probate Judges Assn. meeting May 8-9-10 was okayed.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The rental equipment business, which may be the most vigorously growing of all service industries, is still essentially one of small, dynamic businessmen.

By nearly fulfilling their boast of being able to rent anything under the sun — a giraffe was rented in California a few weeks ago — these small-business men are building an industry estimated to gross $1 billion a year.

The tendency of more and more Americans to rent rather than buy gained a foothold in the West shortly after World War II as part of the do-it-yourself movement.

The first stores mainly were mom-and-pop operations, with father renting the hardware items and mother attending to the fancier activities, such as renting glassware and coffee urns and candelabra for parties.

There has been no letup in the growth rate, estimated by industry officials at between 15 and 20 per cent a year. But only in the past few years has it been growing fast in the Northeast.

There are now estimated to be about 10,000 rental outlets throughout the country, the great majority of them owner-operated. Not only is it an industry of small businesses, but it may continue to be so for years more.

Hertz, the big automotive and construction equipment rental, has withdrawn from the general renting field. Sears, Roebuck tried it and also withdrew. The biggest chain, Abbey Rents, numbers no more than 60 or so outlets nationwide.

Franchisers are more active than large chains, with United Rent-All of Los Angeles, and A to Z Rental of Chicago, claiming well over 300 members each. But even franchise holders are small-business men.

"The higher the inventory the less the turnover," says Bill Ristow, who operates a flourishing business in Des Plaines, Ill. "The bigger the business the harder it is to turn over," he says in explaining the small-business man's success.

Some small rental companies claim to turn over their inventories four or five times a year. But larger ones might rent out their entire inventory, on average, only once in a year. There is strength in smallness.

The American Rental Association of Moline, Ill., whose membership includes 100 manufacturers of rental equipment and 1,400 outlets, estimates that $50,000 of equipment is needed to begin a community rental operation.

Franchisers, however, come up with lower figures, and claim also that they can improve prospects for success by their whole-sale buying power and by helping to choose location and inventory, by assisting with advertising, and by teaching techniques.

A to Z Rental has three packages for prospective members of its franchise. The lowest in cost, a $35,000 plan, requires the purchaser to put down $8,750. The $50,000 plan requires $12,500 cash, the $75,000 plan $18,750.

United Rent-All, which claims that none of its outlets has ever failed, requires $15,000 down, and a passing grade on credit and aptitude tests. It asks for an immediate $1,000 deposit as evidence of good faith.

The down payment to United goes toward reducing the $18,000 franchise fee, buying the opening inventory and providing working capital for the new venture.

One of the big headaches, if not a threat to success, is conversions. A conversion occurs when the renter of an item fails to return it. After a period of time it has the same effect on the businessman as a theft.

"It's a genuine peril of the business," says Ristow, who has known of an individual who rented a truck at one location and a construction backhoe at another, and then disappeared with both.

A conversion, however, is not a theft; it is not a criminal act; it is a civil offense, a contract violation. Frequently when apprehended, the offenders states: "I was still using it, intended to return it and am willing to pay."

It's difficult to prevent such incidents and much harder to prove them criminal. Careless rental companies can be hurt badly. Careful ones will continue to thrive.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A HAYSEED approached a vending machine, inserted a quarter, and pressed the button labeled "Coffee, double cream, and sugar." No cup appeared, but two nozzles began functioning, one pouring coffee, the other cream. After the proper amounts had gone down the drain where the cup should have been, the machine stopped pouring.

"Now that's real automation," nodded the hayseed admiringly. "This thing even DRINKS for you!"

A jaded professor of political science, bound for Tahiti to get away from it all, was pacing the deck with a new shipboard acquaintance. He announced confidently, "You live in the city governed by as mean, dirty, and corrupt a ring of thieves as there is in all the U.S.A." "How do you know where I live?" demanded the astonished new acquaintance. The professor puffed placidly on his pipe and answered, "I don't!"

Michael Harris tells of one Sunday evening when Ed Sullivan took a lion tamer aside just before his TV show went on the air and said, "Look, the show's running too long and we've got to cut your act down from six minutes to three. Do you understand?" "Yeah, I understand," nodded the lion tamer, "but how am I going to explain it to the lion?"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Physicians are often confused over why some patients fail to follow instructions or to continue them for the length of time they are prescribed. Most of us in practice have found that anxiety plays such an important role in the doctor's office that patients often hear those instructions. For this we recommend that they be written down once they are clear. There is no shame in doing this since it spares both the doctor and the patient a great deal of time and the need to repeat instructions.

I have been impressed by the fact that patients who understand their problem exactly are freed of the mystique of medicine and respond better to medication and treatment than those who are in a constant state of confusion.

A specific case may point out how important it is for a patient to understand the anatomy and physiology of his illness. A person with a hiatus hernia follows a rigid diet and takes anti-spasm medicines when he has in his mind's eye a picture of the condition that exists at the junction of the esophagus and the stomach. The reason for small feedings at regular intervals becomes clear and he then adheres to the regime set for him by his doctor. So it must be with disorders of the blood, the liver, the gallbladder, the lungs and the heart. A simple diagram which does not overwhelm the patient with medical terms, but clarifies the picture, is of great help to both the patient and the doctor.

Adults in their enthusiasm and devotion for little children sometimes forget that the three-year-old is very fragile and cannot be swung too energetically without doing some harm. Recently a young father lifted his little girl somewhat more roughly than normally and dislocated one of the long bones of the hand at the junction of the elbow. The pain was so severe that I felt an X-ray and consultation with a bone specialist was worthwhile. In this case the damage was slight but had it been overlooked it might have resulted in a chronic limitation of motion as the child grew older.

The temptation is great to horseplay with youngsters, especially the little boys who are thought to be "fullbacks in training" even at birth. Should there be an injury, it is wise to lean in the direction

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Wednesday, April 9, the 99th day of 1969. There are 266 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1865, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House, Va. On this date:

In 1682, the French explorer, La Salle, reached the Gulf of Mexico after traveling the length of the Mississippi River. In 1939, the Negro singer, Marian Anderson, gave a recital at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington after being barred from the Constitution Hall.

In 1940, Germany invaded Norway and Denmark. In 1942, American and Filipino forces on Bataan, the Philippines, were overwhelmed by the Japanese after three months of resistance.

In 1945, German troops in the Netherlands were trapped as Canadian troops cut off all escape routes.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy signed a proclamation making Sir Winston Churchill an honorary American citizen.

Ten years ago — There was a revolt in northern Iraq.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson won a 15-day postponement of a national railroad strike, and new mediation was scheduled.

One year ago — The slain civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, was buried in Atlanta.

Nixon And Eisenhower

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

There is a curious discrepancy in the way historians judge our history. I have lived through two pleasant decades — the Twenties and the Fifties. By comparison the Thirties, Forties and Sixties have been disasters. But Calvin Coolidge, the "Puritan in Babylon," meets only derision from historians for having turned the White House of his day into "a peaceful dormitory." As for Ike Eisenhower, he was generally listed among our "do-nothing Presidents" before his long series of illnesses evoked everybody's sympathy and so dulled the spirit of criticism.

Of Coolidge it might fairly be said that he should have spoken out against the excessive "brokers' loans" in Wall Street of the late Twenties. But Eisenhower deserves a completely positive rating for having fostered and protected the tranquility of the Fifties. He carried off his unique contribution to our history not by any remarkable legislative program, but by his sheer force of character in conducting our foreign policy.

Whether his Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' threat of "massive retaliation" was bluff or not, the point is that, with Ike in the White House, no foreign chancellor dared put us to the test. Ike's veiled threat, conveyed to the Red Chinese through our embassy in India, to use drastic means to end the troubles in Korea, even hinting at possible use of atomic weapons in a strike at Manchuria, turned the peace talks at Panmunjom into something less than a fiasco. (They did not give us a "victory," but at least they did not end in defeat.) The Red Chinese didn't care to risk the righteous anger of the old soldier who had made the Germans tremble at Omaha Beach.

President Nixon, who worked loyally for Ike for eight years in the "splendid misery" of the Vice Presidency, surely knows the source of our strength in the Fifties. He, too, has hinted that he knows a way to keep enemy "peace" negotiators from dawdling. This, unless he has surrender in mind as an option, which is truly unthinkable, can mean only one thing: a significant promise of the sort of "action" that Eisenhower threatened sixteen years ago.

Richard Nixon never commanded vast armies, and it would be understandable if both Ho Chi Minh and the Kremlin wrote him off as a "politician" who lives only to win reelection. At any rate, he is being put to the test.

I don't see Nixon as a "mere politician." But even assuming the worst, no U.S. President could ever hope to win reelection by negotiating a surrender in a war. Perhaps Nixon is destined to be a one-term President no matter what he does; but, perversely, not even the doves would reward him for an ignominious desertion of an ally. They would cheer him for the moment — and, in 1972, proceed to deliver the dove vote to McGovern, McCarthy or Ted Kennedy.

Meanwhile, the basic Republican strength that is now looking for an honorable end of the war would dribble away. There would be more "Wallaceism" extending into the upper reaches of the South, and demoralization everywhere.

Whether President Nixon is motivated by "politics" or not, he just have thought long and hard during the funeral week about the source of Eisenhower's strength. Thus he has no recourse but to take the bit between his teeth. He could do this by making two seemingly contradictory moves. One would be to threaten to bomb the dikes and blockade the ports of North Vietnam. The second would be to announce a policy of sending only volunteer soldiers as replacements to South Vietnam. The latter move, as suggested to Nixon by Professor Milton Friedman and other thoughtful advisers, is entirely feasible at higher rates for soldier's pay. It would also achieve the miracle of claiming down the college campuses, which are the real strength of Ho Chi Minh in America.

State Won't Push Death Penalty In Sirhan Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state will not press for the death penalty for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy — but will suggest it would be appropriate.

"We won't, in so many words, say to the jury 'bring in the death penalty,'" said Lynn D. Compton, chief deputy district attorney. "It's rarely productive in our opinion to stand up and insist or demand that a jury return a certain verdict in this kind of case."

"We're going to suggest to them that it would be an appropriate penalty if they think so and leave it wide open to their discretion."

The last witness in the three-month-old trial, psychologist Leonard Olinger, was on the stand when court adjourned Monday. His cross-examination was expected to end by noon today and attorneys said they would spend the rest of the day discussing jury instructions with Judge Herbert V. Walker.

Final arguments, expected to take three or more days, will precede the judge's instructions to the jury of seven men, five women.

The jurors will probably have a choice of four possible verdicts:

—First-degree murder. On returning this verdict, the jury would deliberate again to set a penalty of life in prison or death in the gas chamber. The judge is empowered to reduce the verdict.

—Second-degree murder. Carries a penalty of 5 years to life.

—Manslaughter. Penalty of 1-15 years.

According To Boyle

By JOE WING (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — A perfect stranger wrote from North Carolina the other day to make this modest proposal:

"Send me a certified check for $100,000 and you can have complete rights to my column. This is a chance in a lifetime."

It isn't often that such a straightforward proposition pops up in a letter on my desk, but I felt fairly confident nevertheless in pigeonholing it. For one thing, the AP has never authorized me to write certified checks for $100,000. For another I had a feeling that the gentleman had overestimated the literary value of his column.

An editor cannot always be that smug about his own decisions. He finds himself making the wrong ones too often. And he has plenty of chances to go wrong because a third of the adult residents of these United States have secret or overt hankerings to be newspaper columnists. That's my own estimate based on the fact that not a day passes but one or more hopeful columnist bundles up his samples and ships them off to the feature desk of The AP.

What an editor always hopes

for, of course, is a column so well written, so original, so entertaining or so informative that he does indeed find it the chance of a lifetime.

But what he sees mostly are scripts intended to prove that the aspirants are funnier than Art Buchwald or Russell Baker, more profound than David Lawrence or James Reston, or with more human insight than Hal Boyle or Jimmy Breslin.

Doctors, dentists, lawyers and insurance experts want to write columns about their specialties. There are homespun psychiatrists who are sure they can make Dr. Abby or Doctor Brothers take to cover, financial experts who would love to give Mary Feeley or Sylvia Porter a run for their money.

Astrologers, drama critics, book reviewers, cooks, teachers, fashion experts, beauticians and health faddists all want to get into the act.

After all, wouldn't you yourself like to try your hand at it? A columnist must live the life of Riley, writing two or six pieces a week and spending the rest of his time in night clubs, or just lying around home, thinking.

That's what I thought until Hal Boyle was absent one day and I volunteered in my ignorance to write some substitute columns for him.

One lap around the course and I was winded. Three more and I had just about had it. Finally I decided that I might be able to turn out once a month a piece the wire editor would let by if Boyle were definitely, positively unable to report for work.

The mere thought of a writer like Boyle producing five columns a week for 25 years brings on that old seasick feeling. So how come all you people want to write columns?

Grandpappy Jenkins says it's funny how so many oldsters who claim they're too feeble to handle a snow shovel can hardly wait to get into action with the garden spade.

An Englishman set a record by eating a 16-ounce onion in two minutes 14 seconds. A truly breath-taking achievement!

Goldberg Studies Bid For Senate

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former U.S. Supreme Court justice and U.N. ambassador, says he may run for the New York Senate seat held by the late Robert F. Kennedy.

When Kennedy was assassinated last June 5, two years of his senatorial term remained. His successor was Charles E. Goodell, a Republican U.S. Representative appointed to the seat by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, also a Republican.

Goldberg, 60, said he had made no final decision whether to seek the Democratic nomination in the 1970 primary "but I am seriously considering it."

Whip half a cup of heavy cream and add a couple of tablespoons of sugar and a little vanilla; heap into small paper cups and freeze. When cream is firm, drop the cups into a plastic bag and seal air-tight. You can keep the cream in the freezer for a month and it will be great to have on hand for a dessert topper.

Student Activism Turns To Fund Raising For College

By WOOD SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Student activism at Kentucky Wesleyan College has a different twist—a commitment to raise one-third of the $1 million the college needs to build a library.

The college president, Dr. Harold P. Hamilton, says it started when the 22-year-old president of the student body "came into my office one day last November and said he was seeking a project for the student government."

Hamilton said he "pointed to the drawings of the library and said, 'How about that?'" Burleigh James Matthews of Indianapolis, Ind. an A-minor premed major, took it from there. About 75 students are committed to the active effort, organized under student "captains" assigned to lead 12 teams on the "church-dinner trail" around the state and, finally, to conduct a door-to-door campaign.

For the rest of the money, the college is counting on a $300,000 grant from the federal government next July and a campaign to raise $340,000 from alumni and trustee contributions and special advance gifts.

Hamilton says plans for a library to serve the college's 1,185 students had been tabled until Matthews organized the student project.

Until then, he says, the trustees had considered raising $1 million impossible because the United Methodist Church, with which the college is affiliated, has more urgent charitable responsibilities and the college could not reasonably appeal solely to Owensboro's 52,000 residents.

A large room at one end of a combined administration-classroom building has housed the college's library materials since it moved from Winchester, Ky., in 1951.

Hamilton says the students' attitude has "made a new man out of me—it really rejuvenated me. There is a genius about these kids."

He has promised to have the name of every student involved engraved on a plaque to be placed on the wall of the library.

Matthews calls the project the Wesleyan Idea—"the theory that if you offer college students programs as meaningful in a constructive area as are being offered in a destructive one, the students will accept the constructive challenge."

Quick Action Saves Library

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—Quick action by a neighbor, police and firemen probably saved Kenton's new $250,000 Hardin County District Library.

The neighbor, Ted Titus, heard mysterious noises coming from the building Monday night. He called police.

Sgt. Charles Smith investigated, found the glass door to the building extremely hot, entered the building, and turned off a master electrical switch.

When firemen arrived they said the temperature inside was nearly 300 degrees.

Court Rejects Lancaster Man's Appeal For Writ

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A writ of habeas corpus has been denied a Fairfield County man who contended his rights were violated when he was convicted of slaying a Lancaster widow in 1964.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary Monday turned down the request by John Lincoln Carder, now serving two concurrent life sentences in Ohio Penitentiary for the murder of Vanetta Brucker. Carder's attorneys contended that his Constitutional rights were denied during his arrest and trial in 1964 when he was a 16-year-old high school junior. Carder now is 21.

The conviction was upheld by the 5th District Court of Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court. The victim of the slaying, who operated a store and teen-age recreation center in Lancaster, was killed with an ice pick and meat cleaver.

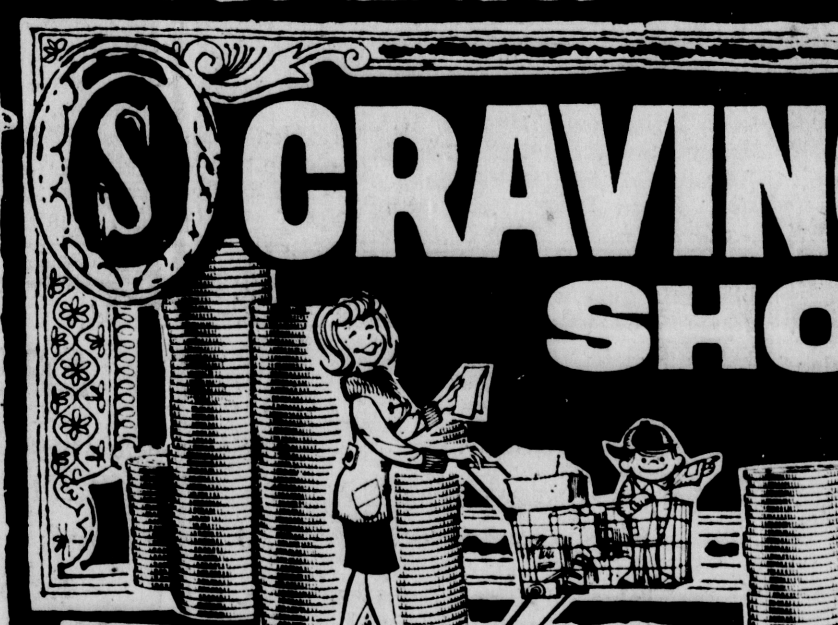

Solons Approve Window Washing

Pickaway County Commissioners approved a contract with the AA Cleaning Co. of Chillicothe to wash the windows at the courthouse and the library.

The firm submitted a bid of $175 to clean the windows on the outside.

Commissioners also approved four water taps in the Earmhart Hill Water District. A request by Judge Guy Cline for $75 to attend the Ohio Probate Judges Assn. meeting May 8-9-10 was okayed.

Man Gets Chair In Dual Slaying In Walnut Hills

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge William J. Morrissey Monday sentenced Jefferson T. Berry, 48, to die in the electric chair for the murders of a man and a woman.

The execution date was set at Aug. 7. Berry was convicted last Thursday of first degree murder in the shooting deaths of James A. Hartman, 55, and Mrs. Juanita Perkins, 30. Their bodies were found in an apartment in the Walnut Hills section on Aug. 6.

Berry's attorneys said a motion for an appeal has been filed. The prosecution said Berry was a former boyfriend of the Perkins woman.

Museum Notes 100th Birthday

By ELIZABETH BASSETT
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Helmut Sommer, bone preparator for the American Museum of Natural History, hefted the jaw of a whale that once swam in the Coney Island aquarium.

"Why are its teeth black?" he was asked. "Water pollution," replied Sommer, who was helping prepare the museum's centennial exhibition, somberly titled "Can Man Survive?"

The museum alongside Central Park, where a kid from Harlem or Brooklyn can explore the world and universe for the price of a subway ride, is 100 years old today.

In preparing for the centennial exhibit, opening in May, director James Oliver has begun a 10-year program to renew 15 of the 58 exhibition halls. Old, pollution-free bones of di-nosaurus and the like have been dusted off. New exhibits have been mounted. The Star of India and other jewels, stolen several years ago in a sensational burglary, are back in their display cases.

Only a few of the 16 million objects collected by the museum over the years are displayed in 200 scenes, in which every animal, plant, bug, bird and person is painstakingly authentic.

Children and adults lose themselves in the autumn stillness of a lake in upper New York State; watch two huge male moose clash over a female in the Alaskan tundra, or see a pair of lyre-horned bongos in an African bamboo grove.

The Hall of Man in Africa, which opened last year, uses color, lighting, music and graphic display in exhibits which are not only scientific, but artistic.

Another new exhibit in the old museum—a turreted Romanesque castle—has a 94-foot whale coming through the ceiling of the Hall of Ocean Life. The whale is made of light, manmade material, because, a curator said, "whale skin is just too delicate."

At one end of the museum is the Hayden Planetarium, where visitors are transported into outer space, projected on a domed ceiling.

But because so few of the museum's annual 3.2 million visitors attended night sky shows, the planetarium opens only in the afternoons.

The first of the museum's 19 buildings was opened in 1878, nine years after the charter was signed on April 9, 1869. Theodore Roosevelt, his father, financier J. P. Morgan and others helped raise money.

The original staff of two scientists—founder Albert S. Bickmore and an assistant—has grown to more than 100.

They conduct some 300 research projects at the museum and five permanent field stations—in the Caribbean, Florida, Arizona and two on Long Island.

Tonight's ceremonies include the presentation of gold medals to five scientists and the crew of the Apollo 9.

The scientists are Theodosius Dobzhansky, geneticist and philosopher at Rockefeller University; Libbie Henrietta Hyman, the museum's expert on living invertebrates; ornithologist Ernst Mayr, who is director of Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology; anthropologist Margaret Mead, and George

Color Phones May Be Banned

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — State Rep. Ted Alvarez Jr., can't afford color telephones in his dairy barn, he says, so he figures the state can't afford them in its business either.

The Democratic legislator from Jacksonville has filed a bill in the legislature to restrict all state agencies to the use of black telephones.

"I have a feeling we'll save thousands of dollars," he said.

Gaylord Simpson, professor of vertebrate paleontology at Harvard and professor of geology at the University of Arizona.

The Apollo 9 astronauts—Col. James A. McDivitt, Col. David R. Scott, and civilian Russell L. Schweickart—will be honored for "leadership among men in the search for knowledge."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Teach Sharing By Examples

DEAR ABBY: I am heart sick. I have a lovely 13-year-old daughter who I think the world of. Last evening her father and I were going to a very special party, so I asked her if I could carry her new white kid gloves. (She got them for Christmas). I honestly thought she'd be delighted.

Well, she refused, and I was stunned! I wouldn't even have put them on my hands. I just wanted to carry them.

I don't have to tell you how many nice things mothers do for their daughters, including letting them wear some of their "best," and for my daughter to be so selfish actually made me sick.

What would you have done, Abby? I've considered teaching her a lesson by refusing her the next favor she asks of me, and yet that doesn't seem right. Would a lecture on "sharing and selfishness" have been in order?

PERPLEXED
DEAR PERPLEXED: Don't "punish" her by refusing the next favor she asks of you. Respond in your usual generous manner. She knows she was selfish, and if she is as "lovely" as you say she is, one day she'll admit it and try to make it up to you. Children learn more from example than from lectures. No one knows what triggers the "meanness" in us. We all have our bad days. Maybe this was one of your daughter's. Don't dwell on it.

DEAR ABBY: It all started when I bought a new hat. I rarely wear hats, but this one is very smart, and several of my friends have complimented me on it.

My problem is that my steady doesn't care for hats in general, but he HATES this one with a passion. He gave me a choice. Either him or the hat!

Tonight I am home alone for the second consecutive night because Greg refuses to be seen with me if I wear that hat, and I refuse to give in to him on something so silly.

I think Greg is being unreasonable. The decision is yours, Abby.

JUST AS STUBBORN
DEAR JUST: It appears that the decision has already been made, and you made it. But perhaps you're lucky to learn that something so "silly" can come between you and Greg.

If I were you, I'd chuck the hat. But then I am NOT you, and apparently having your own way is more important to you than having Greg, in which case, I advise you to put on that hat and go hunting for somebody who likes it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a brother who has been married for 26 years. In all that time he and his wife have never invited any of our side of the family to their home. They have accepted invitations to our homes, but have never returned them.

Their whole married life has been spent socializing with my sister-in-law's side of the family. Now their sons are being married. These nephews are strangers to our side of the family, but their mother has included us in all the showers and weddings, which are clearly gift-giving occasions.

I think we are being used. How would you feel?

DISGUSTED AUNT
DEAR AUNT: Same as you. But one cannot be "used" unless he permits himself to be. A courteous "decline" to such occasions will get your message across.

U.S. Employment Rises Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moderate job gains boosted the nation's total of employed workers only slightly last month, and there was no significant change in the unemployment rate, the government reported Tuesday.

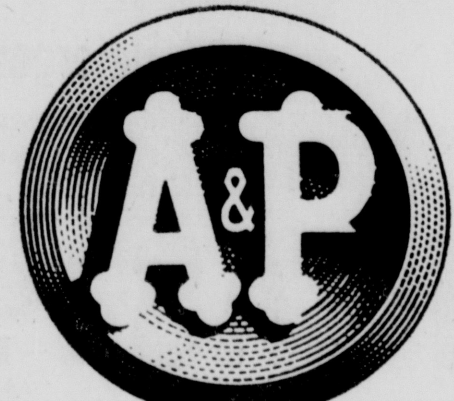

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the March increase in employment—to 77.7 million—was the smallest gain in six months.

The over-all unemployment rate, the bureau said, was 3.4 per cent in March compared with the 3.3 per cent rates of the previous three months. The small rise was attributed mainly to unemployment among teen-agers.

Clay To Participate In Kent State Meet

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Cassius Clay, who was suspended from the Black Muslims and stripped of his Islamic name of Muhammad Ali last week, was to participate in a panel discussion at Kent State University tonight. The former heavyweight boxing champion and William Rusher, publisher of the conservative National Review magazine, are to face a student program on the black man and society.

Goldberg Studies Bid For Senate

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former U.S. Supreme Court justice and U.N. ambassador, says he may run for the New York Senate seat held by the late Robert F. Kennedy.

When Kennedy was assassinated last June 5, two years of his senatorial term remained. His successor was Charles E. Goodell, a Republican U.S. Representative appointed to the seat by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, also a Republican.

Goldberg, 69, said he had made no final decision whether to seek the Democratic nomination in the 1970 primary "but I am seriously considering it."

Whip half a cup of heavy cream and add a couple of tablespoons of sugar and a little vanilla; heap into small paper cups and freeze. When cream is firm, drop the cups into a plastic bag and seal air-tight. You can keep the cream in the freezer for a month and it will be great to have on hand for a dessert topper.

VISTA Has Spotty Record

Editor's Note: In the government's war on poverty, VISTA supplies the guerrillas—volunteers who work and live for a year in the nation's bleakest backyards. Here is a comprehensive report on their accomplishments, their failures and the controversies they stir.

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — VISTA, the poor man's Peace Corps, has a ragged record after four years in the front lines of the war on poverty.

Its results have been blurred and erratic, a hit-and-miss mixture of fireworks and fizzle.

In West Virginia, a quiet push from just one VISTA volunteer helped start the "black lung" movement by coal miners.

But on the vast Navajo reservation in Arizona, an Indian leader brands one of the oldest and largest VISTA programs as an empty failure.

In Texas and elsewhere, activities of VISTA volunteers have provoked conflicts with local officials.

By VISTA's own count, one out of every seven projects across the country is rated as "deadwood."

"The job is tougher than we thought it was. And we need tougher people," said Padraic (Pat) Kennedy, 35-year-old director of the federal program—its full name is Volunteers in Service to America—which sends out 5,000 volunteers annually to live for a year in the bleakest backyards of the nation.

An Associated Press check of key projects, coupled with the agency's own evaluation reports, shows why the overhaul was undertaken.

Nearly half of the volunteers have been sent out without an adequate assignment on how to help.

Sandy Harrod, 23, Berkeley, Calif., who spent a year with the Navajo tribe, said, "I didn't know where to start or what to do. I don't think I accomplished a whole lot."

One out of four volunteers quits before finishing his full year in VISTA.

Training has failed to prepare a majority of volunteers for the sudden plunge into the pestholes of poverty.

Bill Berends, 21, a former volunteer in Boston's South End, said, "It takes six to eight months to get accustomed to living in the ghetto and working in the conditions. You have four months of productivity. Then you're gone, leaving nothing behind."

Three out of four VISTA projects are attached to other antipoverty programs, such as local community action offices, where some volunteers complain they are viewed as errand runners. One said, "So much of it has been holding hands with the poor."

Not too long ago one-fifth of all volunteers were teenagers, many of them inept and immature, coming to VISTA to try to solve their own problems rather than those of the poor.

The most recent national checkup of the 565 VISTA projects called for closing 76. Half have been reshaped, the others shut down. Meanwhile, regional supervisors are scrapping 54 more.

By the time Kennedy winds up his first year as the acting director of the $32 million a year program late next month, the changes may be striking.

Fully 20 per cent of this year's volunteers will be professional specialists, such as lawyers or architects. Volunteers will get on-the-spot training in the poverty areas where they will work. All will be at least 20 years old this time. They will have more specific jobs to do, they will have more thorough supervision.

VISTA is trying to break away from its overlap with other antipoverty programs. It is setting up more independent projects, such as the widely hailed new effort at Palo Alto, Calif., to use university economic experts to help Negroes start their own businesses.

But, for the most part, VISTA's impact on poverty is still voiced in terms of high hopes rather than hard results.

The Navajo project is an example of both the failure and the future of VISTA.

The huge, rugged Indian reservation—long imprisoned in poverty—is caught today in cross-currents of change. At Sheep Springs, N.M., a tall TV aerial rises above a timber and mud-walled hogan. At Window Rock, Ariz., many Navajos live in ranch-style homes. But other Indians are haunted by hunger and hopelessness.

For four years VISTA has been sending volunteers to the far reaches of this beautiful, barren land. Once there were 64. Now there are five.

"The program was a flop. It was lousy," said Jimmy Begaye, a bronze-faced Navajo educator who now runs the VISTA project.

Volunteers had been strewn around the reservation without specific assignments on how to help. "We were virtually a bunch of young kids who didn't know how to do anything," said Sandy Harrod.

Jo-Anne Nola, now a teacher at San Jose, Calif., recalled spending her first eight months in a desolate corner of the reservation without transportation to the far-flung Navajo villages she was supposed to serve.

Except for the satisfaction of having made some inroads in the Indian's long distrust of the white man, she said "it would have been a total waste."

The Navajos have replaced the previous program with their own plan for the eventual enlistment of young Indian leaders as local VISTA volunteers. The only white VISTA workers sent in from the outside will be specialists with needed skills.

Carpenters, business consultants and teachers head this list. But Begaye said he was disappointed with the backgrounds of several volunteers when the first group of 26 arrived for training last month.

"They were sending us people like stage coach drivers or coin collectors or piano players," Begaye said.

"Maybe they thought a stage coach driver was just what we needed out here," laughed grizzled George Young, his gold teeth showing.

In Washington, Kennedy said the Navajos were probably looking at the volunteers' pastimes, not their professions. He said VISTA sent precisely the skilled specialists they asked for.

Kennedy—no relation to the famed political family—sees the future of VISTA in volunteers who have ideas to match their ideals.

Craig Robinson, 24, from Buffalo, N.Y., became a soft-spoken crusader in West Virginia's "black lung" movement after pouring through medical books on the miners' disease.

Robinson helped organize the first meetings of miners in the state's ridge-wrinkled southern coal hills last autumn to hear a physician speak out against the illness. Other VISTA volunteers aided in adjoining counties.

An antipoverty lawyer working with Robinson at Mabscott, W.Va., drew up the original version of the "black lung" legislation calling for state compensation payments for miners disabled by the ailment.

Without VISTA involvement, the miners' movement sprang up independently in other parts of the state. Eventually the miners walked out in a statewide strike that idled 42,000 men and crippled coal production before the legislature passed the "black lung" law last month.

J. E. (Ned) Watson, a leading state legislator, blamed VISTA for "encouraging them to walk out and go on strike." The miners denied this. And VISTA volunteer Robinson, who was out of town the day the strike began in his county, said the walkout came as a surprise.

Protest, however, is not an uncommon weapon in VISTA's arsenal. And this frequently caused friction with local government.

As Apollo 9 whirled around the earth last month at the command of the space center in Houston, Tex., VISTA volunteers led low income parents in a march around Houston's school board.

The picketing protest was mounted after the board voted to cut 4,000 needy youngsters out of the free lunch program in the schools because of a money shortage—then approved $25,000 to fight a Justice Department desegregation suit.

In the middle of the demonstration the board backed down. Paul Allen, 40, supervisor of Houston's VISTA group, watched the protest and said, "What we do in other places is Band-Aids and Mercurochrome. This is where it really counts."

In Allen's cramped headquarters, with a faded green carpet so thin it looks like a desk blotter, two young VISTA lawyers criticized Houston as the nation's largest city without a petition demanding a city ordinance to force slum landlords to make repairs. Other volunteers have been gathering signatures as the first step in a fresh protest.

In a Washington interview, Kennedy said VISTA volunteers rarely create local issues—they help the poor articulate the injustices that already anger them.

But, because VISTA is a federal agency, activities of the volunteers often stir deep controversy.

In the Rio Grande area at the tip of Texas, one newspaper scored VISTA as "Volunteers in Strife, Turbulence and Agitation."

At Del Rio, Texas, several thousand Mexican-Americans marched in protest last month after courthouse officials called for the ouster of 20 VISTA volunteers in a dispute over political involvement. The VISTA members have been ordered to leave this month.

Other controversies in West Virginia and Kentucky have ended the Appalachian Volunteers, one of the oldest and largest VISTA programs.

At the same time, VISTA is torn internally by some members' impatience with the slow pace of progress against poverty.

In recent weeks, there have been two secret meetings at Santa Fe, N.M., by volunteers to discuss a dramatic mass resignation from VISTA to set up a private group to fight poverty.

Led by a former monk and two Albuquerque volunteers, including a youth known as "Goldilocks" because of his bushy blond beard, the budding rebellion has touched about 60 volunteers scattered throughout the Southwest.

But—like similar secret meetings in New York last summer—no action has been taken.

Sometimes, when VISTA volunteers stay to try to work on their own after leaving the program, the results can be volatile.

In Des Moines, Iowa, one former volunteer who is now a black militant leader is under indictment for arson in two business blazes that flared up during "fire prevention week."

At the core of VISTA's accomplishments and controversies is its volunteer intolerance toward poverty, an impatience they imprint on people who may have surrendered to their plight in the past.

For instance, VISTA played only a fringe role in the local drive for fair elections last fall in West Virginia's Mingo County.

When the Justice Department balked at sending investigators in, VISTA members from two states put on suits, got haircuts, and drove into Mingo County on election day in government-marked cars that prompted people to mistake them for FBI men keeping an eye on honest voting.

James Washington, a former miner who led the reform movement, said, "If it hadn't been for VISTA workers, none of this would have been going on—because the same people have been around here for years without doing anything."

Views On TV - Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Tuesday was one of those nights without anything special cooking on network television until the latter part of the evening. So with all the arguments about violence in the medium, it seemed a good time to sample the regular offerings.

Violence-hunting takes persistence and a quick hand on the dial. First stop was CBS' "Lancer," a standard western of the "Bonanza" style. The episode was slow-moving, predictable and preachy, about a pair of Eastern school teachers—a man and a pretty girl—determined to educate youngsters in a cow town.

The villains were illiterate fathers of two kids. They didn't want any book-learning pushed off on their kids so they clubbed the male teacher on the head with a rifle butt—on camera. Later, there was a wind-up as one of the bad guys—not really bad, just misguided—beat the tar out of that same teacher, but saw the error of his ways before he finished him off.

"Julia" and Red Skelton came along next. No violence there.

The next stop was "It Takes a Thief," which had a government agent fatally knifed at the opening of the program. The slaying occurred in the shadows.

Later agents of an unfriendly nation tried to dispatch the cool, jaunty hero by rigging a booby trap in his shower. The plan misfired and we had a quick glimpse of one villain accidentally electrocuted by his own snare.

Doris Day, of course was a wholesome and bucolic as a field of new mown hay. "N.Y.P.D." had a rerun describing a hunt for a couple of missing girls.

As it turned out, a good part of the violence encountered was in CBS' half-hour documentary, a fascinating and much too short compilation of films made by children.

First portion was devoted to cartoons and other animated motion pictures made entirely by students between five and 15 in a Lexington, Mass., workshop.

One showed the very grisly death of Santa Claus, complete with burial. Another told a quick story of some Halloween trick or treaters who had the misfortune to call upon a witch, who snatched them in.

Most impressive was a series of strange animated effects that sometimes looked like a Dali landscape and at other moments seemed to be bizarre comedy. It didn't seem to have much central meaning and certainly no plot, but it conveyed an emotion—hostility or tension or perhaps anger.

The final portion showed film made by some teenage dropouts of New York City slums. The boys attempted to show the face of poverty and wound up showing a very young boy getting an injection of a drug.

Host Harry Reasoner spoke of the current debate about whether the violence in society is reflected in television or whether TV produces violence. The question, of course, was not answered and may never be.

Recommended tonight: Bill Cosby Special, NBC 9-10 EST, comedy and yarn spinning by the star with a little music thrown in.

Ohio Magazine Reportedly Still Losing Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Wonderful World of Ohio" magazine still is losing money, and State Development Director Fred Neuenschwander is considering advertising as a source of additional revenue.

Neuenschwander said circulation of the magazine has increased 18,000 a month to about 64,000 since his department took over publication of the magazine from the Department of Natural Resources.

But he added that losses haven't dropped as much as he had hoped. He said most of the loss, averaging $117,000 a year, can be traced to insufficient production contracts.

He said he hopes that planned changes will reduce production costs. A decision on whether to start accepting advertising will be made before July 1, he added.

Kent State SDS Chapter Suspended Following Clash

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Warrants were issued for five students and the Students for a Democratic Society chapter was suspended at Kent State University in the wake of a clash with university police by SDS demonstrators Tuesday.

A freshman, George D. Gibeault of North Randall, a Cleveland suburb, was arrested Tuesday night, university police reported.

The other four named in warrants were not identified immediately. The warrants on charges of assault and battery apparently stemmed from an attempt by some 50 demonstrators to force their way past campus police guarding the administration building.

Dr. Robert E. Matson, vice president for student affairs, said the SDS chapter and seven students were suspended. He accused the demonstrators of assault and battery against campus police and said they had disrupted an English class in Satterfield Hall.

This was one of several classes reported entered by SDS demonstrators during a one and one-half hour demonstration in which some 50 students took part. No injuries were reported. The group carried Viet Cong flags, passed out literature and denounced U.S. leaders for "racism and imperialist exploitation."

Czech Reds Crack Down On Press

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders announced new restrictive measures Tuesday night to bring anti-Soviet journalists into line. After an all-day meeting, the Communist party's 21-member presidium said it had approved "some political organization measures to strengthen the leading role of the party in the mass means of communication and to increase discipline in the party."

The announcement said the leaders, headed by First Secretary Alexander Dubcek, also decided to "call to task Communist journalists who in recent days have published matter at variance with party policy or permitted publication of such material."

One crackdown measure, disclosed unofficially, was the suspension of Listy, organ of the Czechoslovak Writers Union. The weekly recently criticized the party for joining the Soviet bloc boycott of the Yugoslav Communist party congress.

The writers' union also questioned the need for restoration of prepublication censorship, instituted April 2 as part of the price the Russian-occupied nation is paying for recent anti-Soviet demonstrations.

The wording of the presidium's communique indicated the Soviets were not satisfied with the April 2 restrictions.

"The basic sources of tension, consisting of anti-Soviet and anti-Soviet tendencies, have not been removed," the communique said.

BAD SAMARITAN—Jim Westra, 40, started a five-day jail term on Easter Sunday in Grand Rapids, Mich., on conviction last fall of violating Michigan's conservation law forbidding harboring wild birds or animals. He cared for an injured baby raccoon brought to him by children after its mother was killed by a car.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Is this it?" asked Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, suddenly aware no one was going to the witness chair. "This is it," answered Russell E. Parsons, one of the lawyers trying to save the jockey-sized, unrepentant assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy from the gas chamber.

With the words, "We rest"—announced matter-of-factly by both prosecution and defense—testimony had ended in Sirhan's murder trial Tuesday after 90 witnesses and three months in court.

Sirhan pronounced himself satisfied with his defense.

David N. Fitts, a deputy district attorney, was to begin the state's closing argument today.

All the words of testimony were in: the minute discussions about Sirhan's mind before the deed, during the deed, after the deed, and about the deed itself.

—the ambush slaying last June 5 of a presidential aspirant. The words filled 836 pages of transcript.

When the jury gets the case, possibly Friday or Monday, it need not debate whether the defendant assassinated the New York senator, Sirhan himself said on the stand that he killed Kennedy. "I'm not proud, but I'm not sorry either," he said.

But the jury must decide whether Sirhan's mental state was such that he could "meaningfully and maturely" premeditate his action — the essential element to first-degree murder. If the answer is affirmative, the jury then chooses between life in prison for the 25-year-old Jordanian Arab or death in a cyanide-filled chamber at San Quentin. Alternatively, the jury of seven men and five women could convict Sirhan of second-degree murder, which carries a sentence of five years to life, or manslaughter—one to 15 years.

The state called its first witnesses Feb. 14, and for nine days there was testimony accounting for the movement of Sirhan and the senator and how they came together... his virulent hate of the senator, poured out in a barely coherent flood of words in his diary and confided to a friend.

The shooting itself was described by Kennedy intimates

Jesse M. Unruh, Roosevelt Grier, Rafer Johnson, and George Plimpton, and the boy who cradled the young senator's head and pressed a "sary into his hands.

Then Sirhan's defenders took over. They brought up Sirhan's boyhood amid the horrors of war in Jerusalem. Sirhan's aged, nearly blind mother, Mary, talked about it. So did his brother Adel, who also told of changes in Sirhan after a fall from a horse three years ago.

For 3½ days Sirhan got the chance he pleaded for—to tell his story. He said he had loved Kennedy until he learned that the senator was a long-time supporter of Israel, that Kennedy promised if elected to honor a commitment to send 50 bombers to the Zionist nation. And then, said Sirhan, his love turned to hate.

Sirhan spoke of his experiments with the occult, of trying to stretch the power of his mind. Friends and former employers testified next. They said they had seen Sirhan change.

On March 10 a parade of psychologists and psychiatrists began and it continued until Tuesday.

The eight testifying for the defense found Sirhan too mentally ill to be capable of first-degree murder. The psychiatrist for the state agreed Sirhan is sick—but not that sick.

Throughout the 35 days of testimony Sirhan tried at various times to fire his lawyers, to plead guilty, to correct witnesses.

Hawaii Gives Big Welcome To Millionth Resting GI

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii gave a red carpet welcome on Tuesday to the millionth man to leave Vietnam on rest and recuperation leave since the program began in 1965.

Army Staff Sgt. Lester R. Hudson of Gallipolis, Ohio, stepped off a chartered Pan American jet and rushed to his wife, Mary Lou, who greeted him with a kiss and a red carnation lei. A shiny Rolls Royce awaited nearby.

Hudson, 24, and counterparts from the other three services will be guests of four Honolulu hotels and will be given gifts from many Honolulu merchants, restaurants, night clubs and other organizations during their extended nine-day leave. The R-and-R leave is usually only six days, but the four honored men were given three additional days.

The other three are Navy Gunner's Mate 3c. Thomas A. Bruemer of St. Louis, Mo., Air Force Sgt. Joseph Durrance of Lake Wales, Fla., and Marine Sgt. Richard L. Jaramillo of Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Hudsons will be given a neighbor island cruise on the Matson liner Lurline, and will be special guests at the Merry Monarch festival in Hilo, on Hawaii Island, this weekend.

The Rolls Royce—which belonged to the late Duke Kahanamoku—was made available to the Hudsons by a Honolulu night club owner. The other three couples will be furnished automobiles by Honolulu agencies.

After their arrival at Honolulu airport, the four men and their wives were escorted past a multi-service honor guard and a line of military and civilian dignitaries to the governor's lounge.

Among those congratulating them were Adm. John S. McCain, Pacific military commander, and Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi.

The couples posed for pictures for a large group of military and civilian photographers and then were escorted to their Waikiki hotels without talking to newsmen.

Hawaii is the most popular of the nine rest and recuperation centers. Almost 200,000 men have come to Hawaii since the program started in August 1963.

Pickaway Twp. PTO To Meet Thursday

On Oct. 27, 1963, Britain switched to Central European Time, which is one hour ahead of Greenwich Mean Time.

Orient Store Liquor License Suspended

Liquor license of Whittie's Market in Orient was suspended by the Ohio Liquor Control Commission recently.

The commission found the local store guilty of Sunday sale of liquor on the premises. The license was suspended seven days beginning noon of May 2.

25-YEAR MEMBER — Roscoe Warren (center) was presented a 25-year Kiwanis Club membership certificate at a recent meeting. Presenting the award is Tom Downing (left), president of the club, as Patrolman P. J. Ranck, guest speaker from the local State Highway Patrol post, looks on. Ranck spoke on motorist assistance work performed by the patrol and the new speed recorder system presently being used. Club members were asked to solicit class sponsors for the Kiwanis Horse Show May 24-25.

1st Pickaway County Posture Contest Slated

Fifteen years ago, a contest was started in Wyandotte, Michigan, to pick the young lady with the most straight spine. Since that time, the idea has caught on so that it has become a World Posture Queen Contest.

Pickaway County will hold its first such contest here in Circleville, April 19, at the L-K Restaurant.

The contest is open to young ladies between the ages of 17 through 22 inclusive. All girls must be of good character and sound physical well-being to be qualified to enter the contest. All contestants must be single with no previous marital status.

This is a unique pageant in that the theme stressed is good posture, straight spine, and good health. Beauty is not necessarily a paramount necessity. Judging of the contest will be based on: 33 1-3 correct posture; 33 1-3 physical fitness; and 33 1-3 poise and personality.

THE winner of the local contest will travel to the state pageant in Toledo, May 4. The winner of the state competition will compete nationally in Chattanooga, Tenn., July 16-19.

The local winner will receive a $25 savings bond, first place trophy, and an expense paid trip to the state pageant. There will also be trophies awarded to the first and second runners-up. Each girl in the contest will receive a keepsake picture of herself.

The national winner will reign as World Posture Queen for one year and will travel extensively making many public appearances.

The purpose of the contest is to further exemplify the ever pressing need of good health and physical fitness.

Entry blanks may be obtained through the mail by calling 474-5809.

Williams Predicts Changes In U.S. - Filipino Relations

12 The Circleville Herald, Wed. April 9, 1969
Circleville, Ohio

By JOHN NANCE
Associated Press Writer
MANILA (AP) — After 10 months as ambassador here, G. Mennen Williams sees problems and changes ahead in U.S.-Philippine relations.
"But whatever you see on the surface must not mislead you," he said. "Basically we'll find ourselves friends and allies."

Job Training Centers Eyed Across Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A union-management agreement announced Tuesday is to provide six centers in Ohio to train minority workers as heavy equipment operators.
The Ohio Contractors Association and Local 18 of the Operating Engineers announced a joint plan to provide more than $1 million a year to support an Equal Opportunity Employment program.
The program is designed to implement federal recommendations to expand work participation by minority workers.
Local 18's membership voted last January to withhold two cents an hour from members' wages for use in the program when a scheduled pay raise goes into effect May 1.
The contractors agreed to match that two cents with an equal amount donated by employer contractors.
One training center is expected to be in Granville, with others in Southeastern Ohio and in the Dayton, Cincinnati and Akron areas.
Heavy equipment for the program will be purchased at a savings from surplus stock owned by the federal government. First of the centers is expected to be opened next year and all six may be in operation in 1971.

See Amendment To Bill Curbing Conglomerates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee was expected today to amend a substitute bill requiring a conglomerate wanting to take over an Ohio firm to first reveal its plans for that firm.
Tuesday the committee adopted the substitute bill recommended by a subcommittee.
The sponsors of the original bill, Sen. William W. Taft, R-26 Cleveland, and William B. Nye, D-28 Akron, said they have agreed to amendments to the substitute bill.
Taft said he felt the substitute bill, which is aimed at protecting shareholders, should not give the management of a target company a method of delaying action on tender offers that would be beneficial to shareholders.

Rep. Donald Lukens Meets With Porter

SEOUL (AP) — Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R-Ohio, met with William Porter, American ambassador to Seoul, at the embassy here Wednesday.
Lukens arrived Tuesday from Taipei for a three-day visit as part of his Asian tour. He is a member of the House Science and Astronautics Committee.

fundamentally we share common beliefs in democracy and have long friendship and mutual interests in defense and in business."
Williams, a long time Democrat nicknamed Soapy, gave his views in an interview before his departure for home this week. He came to the Philippines last June 15.
The 58-year-old ambassador said he expects changes in business, politics and religion in the U.S. military bases agreements and in a continuing accommodation for the "dynamics of Filipino nationalism."

Anti-Americanism is causing concern, he said. But he added that while the United States must not take the Philippines for granted, pro-American feelings still are considerably greater than anti-Americanism.
He said the ruling classes in business, politics and religion are showing signs of opening up. "They are being satisfied with a smaller piece of the pie," he said, and are yielding to changes, encouraging the development of a managerial class and recognizing the need for wider distribution of wealth.
A major problem, Williams said, is that the country has "great resources and is not using them—that is the tragedy." He contended there is a vital need, for increased capital to develop resources and create more employment.
Concerning what he has previously described as an "uncertain" climate for foreign investment, Williams said every country should protect the interests of its nationals, but that there is a need here for a re-evaluation to see if what is being done is really best for the country in the long run.

Among the strongest U.S. contributions here in the last year, Williams mentioned support of agricultural advances, aid to the farmer's credit organs of the land reform program, business loans, and improving labor relations for Filipinos employed by the U.S. government, which is second only to the Philippine government in the number of Filipinos it employs.

University Of Toledo Studies Glass Bowl
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The University of Toledo still is considering a proposal to build a dome over the Glass Bowl so that the stadium could be used for basketball and other sports.
The plan was among recommendations made to the board of trustees by a consulting firm hired to propose ways of improving the school's athletic facilities. A special university committee will screen the firm's recommendations before any decisions are reached.

Kent State SDS Chapter Suspended Following Clash

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Warrants were issued for five students and the Students for a Democratic Society chapter was suspended at Kent State University in the wake of a clash with university police by SDS demonstrators Tuesday.

A freshman, George D. Gibeault of North Randall, a Cleveland suburb, was arrested Tuesday night, university police reported.

The other four named in warrants were not identified immediately.

The warrants on charges of assault and battery apparently stemmed from an attempt by some 50 demonstrators to force their way past campus police guarding the administration building.

Dr. Robert E. Matson, vice president for student affairs, said the SDS chapter and seven students were suspended.

He accused the demonstrators of assault and battery against campus police and said they had disrupted an English class in Satterfield Hall.

This was one of several classes reported entered by SDS demonstrators during a one and one-half hour demonstration in which some 50 students took part. No injuries were reported.

The group carried Viet Cong flags, passed out literature and denounced U.S. leaders for "racism and imperialist exploitation."

After an all-day meeting, the Communist party's 21-member presidium said it had approved "some political organization measures to strengthen the leading role of the party in the mass means of communication and to increase discipline in the party."

The announcement said the leaders, headed by First Secretary Alexander Dubcek, also decided to "call to task Communist journalists who in recent days have published matter at variance with party policy or permitted publication of such material."

One crackdown measure, disclosed unofficially, was the suspension of Listy, organ of the Czechoslovak Writers Union. The weekly recently criticized the party for joining the Soviet bloc boycott of the Yugoslav Communist party congress.

The writers' union also questioned the need for restoration of prepublication censorship, instituted April 2 as part of the price the Russian-occupied nation is paying for recent anti-Soviet demonstrations.

The wording of the presidium's communiqué indicated the Soviets were not satisfied with the April 2 restrictions.

"The basic sources of tension, consisting of anti-Soviet and anti-Soviet tendencies, have not been removed," the communiqué said.

AL Expansion Clubs Both Winners

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Early or late, expansion is great and the American League's two new clubs used opposing formulas Tuesday to win their opening games by identical scores.

The Seattle Pilots struck early, erupting for four runs in the first inning and holding off the California Angels 4-3 in a night game at Anaheim. The Kansas

City Royals scored on Joe Keough's bases-loaded single in the 12th and nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3.

In another night contest, Oakland whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-2, while world champion Detroit trimmed Cleveland 6-2 and Boston edged Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings during the afternoon. The New York Yankees and Washington were not scheduled.

Manager Joe Schultz of the Pilots, asked for comment on the surprising expansion victories, said, "It goes to show the owners did their job" by making some good players available. Seattle's Tommy Harper led off against Jim McGlothlin with a double and Mike Hegan homered. Tommy Davis' single, a hit batsman, a walk and Gerry McNertney's single added two more runs.

The Angels scored in the second on three singles, on Jim Fregosi's homer in the fifth and on two walks, a sacrifice and an infield out in the ninth.

But they ran themselves out of a possible big inning in the second. Aurelio Rodriguez and Tom Satriano opened with hits. Hegan crashed into the right field wall and was knocked cold trying to catch Bobby Knoop's drive, but Knoop passed Satriano on the base paths and was called out. Hegan suffered a sprained left wrist and bruised hip.

The Royals tied Minnesota 3-3 with two runs in the bottom of the sixth but couldn't win it until the 12th before 17,688 fans who welcomed baseball back to Kansas City after a one-year absence.

Harmon Killebrew's error opened the door for two unearned runs in the sixth. Joe

Foy began the winning rally in the 12th with a one-out infield hit and a passed ball and two intentional walks around a wild pitch filled the bases.

Rookie Manager Billy Martin pulled in his outfield but Keough drilled the ball over right fielder Tony Oliva's head. Lou Piniella, acquired last week from Seattle, paced the Royals with a double and three singles. Graig Nettles homered for the Twins.

"I'd have to say this is my biggest thrill as a manager," said Kansas City's Joe Gordon. "The big thrill I got out of it was the way the guys were all pulling for each other. I'll tell you this—I'd have been real disappointed if we'd lost. The guys had battled so hard all day."

Denny McLain held Cleveland to three hits and Al Kaline walked a two-run homer as Detroit opened defense of its 1968 flag. McLain, who was treated Monday for an inflamed pitching shoulder, blanked the Indians over the last seven innings after yielding a homer to Larry Brown in the first and another run in the second.

Norm Cash's two-run double off Luis Tiant tied the game in the third and Kaline connected two innings later. A record Detroit opening day crowd of 53,572 was on hand.

Closing Arguments Readied In Sirhan Case

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Is this it?" asked Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, suddenly aware no one was going to the witness chair. "This is it," answered Russell E. Parsons, one of the lawyers trying to save the jockey-sized, unrepentant assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy from the gas chamber.

With the words, "We rest," announced matter-of-factly by both prosecution and defense—

testimony had ended in Sirhan's murder trial Tuesday after 90 witnesses and three months in court.

Sirhan pronounced himself satisfied with his defense. David N. Fitts, a deputy district attorney, was to begin the state's closing argument today.

All the words of testimony were in: the minute discussions about Sirhan's mind before the deed, during the deed, after the deed, and about the deed itself.

—the ambush slaying last June 5 of a presidential aspirant. The words filled 836 pages of transcript.

When the jury gets the case, possibly Friday or Monday, it need not debate whether the defendant assassinated the New York senator. Sirhan himself said on the stand that he killed Kennedy. "I'm not proud, but I'm not sorry either," he said.

But the jury must decide whether Sirhan's mental state was such that he could "meanfully and maturely" premeditate his action — the essential element to first-degree murder. If the answer is affirmative, the jury then chooses between life in prison for the 25-year-old Jordanian Arab or death in a cyanide-filled chamber at San Quentin. Alternatively, the jury of seven men and five women could convict Sirhan of second-degree murder, which carries a sentence of five years to life, or manslaughter—one to 15 years.

The state called its first witnesses Feb. 14, and for nine days there was testimony accounting for the movement of Sirhan and the senator and how they came together — his virulent hate of the senator, poured out in a barely coherent flood of words in his diary and confided to a friend.

The shooting itself was described by Kennedy intimates

Jesse M. Unruh, Roosevelt Grier, Rafer Johnson, and George Plimpton, and the boy who cradled the young senator's head and pressed a sary into his hands.

Then Sirhan's defenders took over. They brought up Sirhan's boyhood amid the horrors of war in Jerusalem. Sirhan's aged, nearly blind mother, Mary, talked about it. So did his brother Adel, who also told of changes in Sirhan after a fall from a horse three years ago.

For 3½ days Sirhan got the chance he pleaded for—to tell his story. He said he had loved Kennedy until he learned that the senator was a long-time supporter of Israel, that Kennedy promised if elected to honor a commitment to send 50 bombers to the Zionist nation. And then, said Sirhan, his love turned to hate.

Sirhan spoke of his experiments with the occult, of trying to stretch the power of his mind. Friends and former employers testified next. They said they had seen Sirhan change.

On March 10 a parade of psychologists and psychiatrists began and it continued until Tuesday.

The eight testifying for the defense found Sirhan too mentally ill to be capable of first-degree murder. The psychiatrist for the state agreed Sirhan is sick—but not that sick.

Throughout the 35 days of testimony Sirhan tried at various times to fire his lawyers, to plead guilty, to correct witnesses.

Hawaii Gives Big Welcome To Millionth Resting GI

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii gave a red carpet welcome on Tuesday to the millionth man to leave Vietnam on rest and recuperation leave since the program began in 1965.

Army Staff Sgt. Lester R. Hudson of Gallipolis, Ohio, stepped off a chartered Pan American jet and rushed to his wife, Mary Lou, who greeted him with a kiss and a red carnation lei. A shiny Rolls Royce awaited nearby.

Hudson, 24, and counterparts from the other three services will be guests of four Honolulu hotels and will be given gifts from many Honolulu merchants, restaurants, night clubs and other organizations during their extended nine-day leave. The R-and-R leave is usually only six days, but the four honored men were given three additional days.

The other three are Navy Gunner's Mate 3c. Thomas A. Bruemer of St. Louis, Mo., Air Force Sgt. Joseph Durrance of Lake Wales, Fla.; and Marine Sgt. Richard L. Jaramillo of Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Hudsons will be given a neighbor island cruise on the Matson liner Lurline, and will be special guests at the Merry Monarch festival in Hilo, on Hawaii Island, this weekend.

The Rolls Royce—which belonged to the late Duke Kahanamoku—was made available to the Hudsons by a Honolulu night club owner. The other three couples will be furnished automobiles by Honolulu agencies.

After their arrival at Honolulu airport, the four men and their wives were escorted past a multi-service honor guard and a line of military and civilian dignitaries to the governor's lounge. Among those congratulating them were Adm. John S. McCain, Pacific military commander, and Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi.

The couples posed for pictures for a large group of military and civilian photographers and then were escorted to their Waikiki hotels without talking to newsmen.

Hawaii is the most popular of the nine rest and recuperation centers. Almost 200,000 men have come to Hawaii since the program started in August 1963.

Man Starts Mini-March To Back Legislation

By JOHN C. PURCELL
Herald Staff Writer

Have you ever been frustrated by a bureaucracy? Did you ever want to get a few things changed that you thought should be corrected?

Maybe you wrote a letter to your congressman or perhaps even sent him a telegram. Then again you might have let the whole matter pass by just saying to a friend "there should be something to do."

Central Wilson decided to do a little more than complain. He started his own mini-march from Cleveland to Washington D. C. and is now on his way back to Cleveland to dramatize what he feels is an immediate need for Congress to pass a federal workman's compensation law, raise social security and enact a few other laws the 64-year-old hiker feels strongly about.

Wilson came through Circleville Tuesday pulling his 600-pound trailer which converts into a "motel room" at night.

"I AM trying to let people know what's happening in this country and get them to have their congressman do something about it," stated the bearded man as he handed out petitions to be sent to area congressional representatives.

The story behind Wilson's trek to Washington began in July 1966 while he was a truck driver delivering onions in Cleveland. He was in the trailer with his onions when they began to spill into the street. He rolled out with the onions right into the street and landed on his head.

He was ordered to go to the trucking company office to meet with a business agent for the Teamsters Union. He had been a member of that union since 1948.

"When I got there I was told that I would have to wait for six days before I could be treated at the Cleveland Clinic if the company was to pick up the bill," he stated.

He couldn't wait that long, he says, so he went to his own physician. He was then admitted to a hospital where subsequent operations were performed on his head, face bones and abdomen. The operations were performed by Dr. Steven Sheppard brother of

Dr. Samuel Sheppard, he says proudly.

Following his stay in the hospital he filed compensation papers with the company, he says, but they were ignored.

THIS riled him but what has riled him even more is his belief that the union has now deserted him and doesn't want him to work another year and a half so he can receive his 20-year-union retirement.

To press his views that he was being cheated and that the union should correct its mistake and the government prevent such things from happening to others he began his two-month long march.

In Aug. 1967 he arrived in Washington D. C. to see if he could get support for a federal compensation law. He grew a beard and rode a unicycle in front of the White House to dramatize what he considers to be a great need.

While in Washington he sent letters to his congressman and the President. Since that time he has sent several letters to President Nixon urging him to "correct" compensation and pension plans.

He finally received 20 weeks compensation from the Ohio Compensation Commission but a third of it went for attorney's fees.

For the last year or so he has been "gathering support from working people in Virginia and West Virginia." About three weeks ago he set off from Fayette County W. Virginia with his hand-pulled trailer to walk back to Cleveland to tilt with Teamster's Union officials again.

HE claims that he is still on the "official time card" at the freight lines where he works and hasn't been off the payroll since July 1966. He wants his back wages.

"I am fit to return now," he says and few will disagree with the short powerfully built man who has pulled his two-wheel trailer through some of the roughest terrain in the eastern United States.

His secret, he says, is the ability to "generate SINO in my blood which I did before I started for Washington."

What is SINO? He is not telling. It is his secret he stated, and when he has perfected it, he will release it to the world. Not until.

All he has right now is his SINO, his trailer, a $118 a month Social Security check and donations from well-wishers along his way. Hopefully that will be all he needs to get back to Cleveland.

Until that time he is storing his trailer, complete with slogans and unicycle, at the Circleville Police Department until he has had a chance to hike to Columbus to talk with officials there.

"Maybe someday I'll get what I'm deserving," he said.

2nd National Offers New Credit Service

Pickaway County residents will soon be offered the "Master Charge" credit card, according to Durward Dowden, president of The Second National Bank.

The "Master Charge" credit card, to be made available to local families and businesses, is the world's largest credit cards association.

Dowden states, "Our bank will have the one credit card that will provide a new high in convenience for our shopper customers. It will enable cardholders to shop in thousands of establishments right around home, and in more than 300,000 across the country, without the need to carry cash.

"Master Charge," with its national and international interchange privileges, through association with Interbank, is the best in the field."

He further noted that "this new card will enable our customers to maintain a much closer control of expenditures, and will become a valuable aid in family budgeting. The one card will do the job of the many that most people now carry, which will be a tremendous help in bill paying. It will also prove invaluable to the shopper who wants to take advantage of special sales now and be billed later."

Applications are now being accepted by the Second National Bank for the new Master Charge Card.

The Second National Bank is an affiliate of BancOhio Corporation, a 1.3 billion dollar bank holding company, with 88 offices in 22 central Ohio counties.

The decision to move into this new area of consumer credit was made after a thorough study of the many charge cards offered by banks and other credit organizations throughout the country.

Principals Attack Views of Minority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals spoke out today against "a small minority of youth and community groups" that seek to impose their own code on schools and students.

"These groups bypass normal processes, ignore procedures for change and violate the right of the majority," the 1,400-member association said in a policy statement.

2 Californias Being Urged

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A bill to divide California in two was introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

"For all practical purposes right now we have two states with one governor and one legislature," said the sponsor, Sen. Richard J. Dolwig. Virtually every department has offices in both Northern and Southern California.

A similar bill passed the Senate in 1965 but was killed in an Assembly committee.

One opponent is Gary Bromley, 33, a special police officer in Los Angeles.

"I don't think California should be divided. There are not enough people in this state with enough brains to run it as it is, let alone having to run two," he said.

Far-Out Symphony Planned Complete With 'Breakup'

DENVER (AP)—A far-out symphony in which musicians break pop bottles and the audience directs the orchestra opens here May 1.

Called "If Music Be," the four-movement symphony is by Harold Farberman, a sometime composer who has conducted the Denver Symphony on occasion. The work was created, Farberman said, to spur interest in symphonic music among high school audiences.

"It's a rock-pop jazz suite with film and audience," Farberman explained during a wild rehearsal. "I'm not sure myself what it will sound like in the end."

Farberman uses a rock group and the full orchestra for the first movement, which he calls "If Music Be Sound to Move the Soul." The rock combo continues in the second movement and in the third, jazz organist Don Lewis will join the orchestra. The third movement is entitled "If Music Be Fierce, Play On."

It's in the last movement that things reach high pitch.

"This section is made up of bits and pieces of the previous movements," Farberman said.

The "orchestration" calls for the audience to be divided into three parts with an assistant conductor in charge of each. A majority show of hands by any of the sections will direct the corresponding part of the orchestra to play something—anything—no matter what the other two are playing.

During the last movement, musicians will smash pop bottles for effect and an avant-garde film, by New York producer Ed Emshwiller, will be projected at the back of the orchestra.

"Frankly," a spokesman for the Denver Symphony said, "the whole thing may bomb out. If it doesn't, it's going to be the most fantastic thing ever heard."

Man Prepares His Own Funeral, Commits Suicide

DENVER (AP)—With grim, meticulous care Allen M. Michelson planned his funeral. Tuesday he was found dead in a Denver apartment, victim of what police said was an apparent suicide.

Michelson, 60, of El Paso, Tex., came to Denver twice in the past six months to arrange for his burial. Police said he had paid cash for a funeral and burial policy, sending copies to his sister in Miami and keeping one.

THE other record was in the high hurdles, where Poston of Berne Union nosed out Fox of Logan Elm in 17.7.

Other wins by the host team came in the discus, where Dan Cooper had a heave of 115 feet 3 1/2 inch; in the pole vault, where Dave Reichelderfer cleared 10 feet 6 inches and in the mile relay.

Jeff Jones cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet 9 inches but had more misses at that height than did Poston of Berne Union and finished second.

Westfall's two wins came in the 440, where Chris Schein toured the track in 60.7, and in the two mile run where Bob Oesterley made the eight laps around the oval in 12:01.5.

Famous-Name Caddies Set For Masters Competition

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer fired "Iron Man" and turned his golf bag over to "Day Break."

"Marble Eye" carries clubs around the Augusta National Course for Bob Goaly, the defending Masters champion, and "Bull Man" whispers distances in the ear of former winner Jack Burke, Jr.

There are "Pokey" and "Dead Hand Luke" and "Minnesota Fats" and, of course, "Cemetery," all a part of the colorful, black-skinned brigade making up caddie ranks in the Masters Golf Tournament.

"Cemetery"—or "Dead Man," as the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called him—became the world's most famous bag-toter as the favorite caddie of the president in the 1950s.

Now 67, toothless and frail, "Cemetery," whose real name is Willie Perret, has trouble getting a bag.

But he isn't jobless. "Mr. Guldahl asked for me—special," said the wrinkled little man, referring to the veteran Ralph Guldahl.

"Cemetery" got his name because he was so cut up in a knife fight he was laid on a slab in a morgue as dead. He almost caused a panic when he rose up and ran out of the place.

He caddied for Ike for years but one day the president got a new bag man. "He thought I was too slow," the caddie said. "Iron Man," a tall, bewhiskered man in his 50s, also earned an international reputation as Palmer's right hand man during Arnie's victory days.

"I was with Arnie through four championships and then he let me down," said "Iron Man," whose real name is Nathaniel Avery.

Avery coined the famous description of a Palmer charge—

"he jest jerk at his glove, tug at his trousers, walk real fast and say 'the game is on.'"

But some say he got too possessive. He called the team a corporation and when Palmer hit a bad shot it was "Mr. Palmer sliced one into the rough," but when a good shot was made, it was "we sank a 40-yard snake."

SANDSTORM—Behind the sand spray is Bob Goaly, the defending champion in the Masters Golf Tourney at Augusta, Ga. Goaly won the 1968 event when Roberto de Vicenzo signed an incorrect score card, the resulting penalty dropping him out of a tie with Goaly.

Nicklaus, Palmer, Player Men To Beat In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Roberto de Vicenzo, the aging Argentine who gained his greatest fame in a triumph over tragedy, was a sentimental favorite to win the 33rd Masters Golf Tournament today, but the smart money was banked on the almost forgotten Big Three.

Jack Nicklaus, the ominous Ohio strongboy who always ranks as the man to beat, four-time champion Arnold Palmer and tough minded little Gary Player—a trio that once dominated the game—were in the forefront of challengers as an elite field of 83 prepared for Thursday's start of one of the world's four major tournaments.

Reds Slate Ceremonies

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds formally celebrate their baseball centennial tonight in pre-game ceremonies beginning at 7:30 p. m. (EST).

Thirty-five minutes later, they face the Los Angeles Dodgers before whom Cincinnati fell 3-2 in the National League opener Monday.

In 1869, professional baseball was born with the emergence of the Cincinnati Red Stockings. Several baseball figures are scheduled to make appearances at Crosley Field, including baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and former players Walter Hoyt, Stan Coveleski and Bob Feller. Starting for Cincinnati is Jim Maloney, 16-10 in 1968. The big right-hander brings into the season three straight shutouts. Don Sutton, 11-15, is on the mound for Los Angeles.

Other top candidates for the famous green jacket that goes to the winner include Gene Littler, the season's leading money winner, Miller Barber, PGA champ Julius Boros, laughing Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open title-holder; Tom Weiskopf and Bill Casper, 1968 pro of the year.

"I could not cry—I did not keep it inside," De Vicenzo said of the scoring error that cost him a tie with Bob Goaly for last year's title.

"But I still do not feel that I lose the Masters," said the galling gauch.

De Vicenzo, 46 next week, shot a closing 65, seven under par on the flower-bedecked, 6,980-yard Augusta National Course last year for a share of the title with Goaly. But he signed a card that showed a 66 and, under the rules of golf, was stuck with the higher score.

But he didn't complain then, hasn't complained since. And his unselfish stand in taking the blame made him, as he put it, "a little money and a lot of friends."

Palmer, Player and Nicklaus, however have won Eight Masters championships, 13 major titles and, for the first time in years, again form the top threesome.

Expos And Padres Win Opening Contest

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Montreal Expos and San Diego Padres wasted little time striking a blow for the National League's expansion clubs—for and against them.

The Expos and Padres made their debuts Tuesday in the league's latest expansion with glorious victories, but, lo and behold, the victims were the league's first expansion teams—the New York Mets and Houston Astros.

The Expos swung first in the afternoon, flooring New York 11-10, leaving the Mets the only expansion club still looking for an opening day victory—after eight years. The Padres followed at night with a 2-1 decision over the Astros, who won their first game ever in 1962 and since have had trouble recovering their momentum.

In other games the Chicago Cubs and Ernie Banks outthrew Philadelphia 7-6 in 11 innings. Felix Millan slugged his first grand slam homer as Atlanta whopped San Francisco 10-2, and Pittsburgh struggled 14 innings to subdue St. Louis 6-2.

The Mets, last with the least, made it close with four runs in the ninth, three on rookie Duffy Dyer's pinch homer. New York outhit Montreal, 15-12, and to add to the insult, the winning pitcher was former Met Don Shaw.

"It's the darndest opening day game I've ever seen," said Expos' manager Gene Mauch. "Both clubs were keyed up."

Viking Link Team Wins Dual Match

The Teays Valley golf team carded a nine-hole total of 175 Tuesday, defeating Grove City, 7 1/2-1 1/2, on the Upper Lansdowne Links.

Mark Leatherwood, the Vikings' number one gofer, carded a 42, earning medal honors for the event and scoring two points for his team.

Phil Shaffer, the number one gofer for the Greyhounds, shot a 45.

Kelly Leatherwood was just a stroke behind his cousin with a 43. His opponent, Jim Henry, shot a 52 and Kelly added two points to the team total for Teays Valley.

JAY Bastian, playing in the number three spot for Teays Valley shot a 45 and scored two points. His opponent, Mike Eesley, shot a 53 at Upper Lansdowne.

Bob Stone and Ron Cherry both shot 45 in the number four match. Stone earned one-half a point for the Vikings on medal scoring but Cherry picked up the point for match play and one-half a point on medal play.

Teays Valley scored a point on low team total. Ed Combs was the fifth man for Teays Valley. He carded a 42 while his playing opponent, Tom Meier shot a 56. Dale Bastian, the Vikings' sixth man, shot a 49. His opponent, Mike Hayes, shot a 50.

Two Viking freshmen, Scott Huffer and Kenny Bidwell, carded qualifying scores of 52 and 53 respectively last night.

Teays Valley golf coach Howard Weaver reports the golf team this year could be better with more depth than last year's squad.

Thursday the Vikings host Olentangy at Lansdowne and Friday they host Circleville.

CHS Golfers Third In Triangular

The Circleville golf team placed third in a home triangular meet Monday against Upper Arlington and Washington C. H.

Upper Arlington won the meet by beating Circleville 19-0 and Washington C.H. 14 1/2 - 1 1/2.

The locals were led by Bill Adkins, who played in the number one slot. He shot a 41-39-80. Mike Young, Circleville's second man, shot a 45-46-91 while sophomore Greg Heiskell shot a 45-41-86 for second low honors. Fourth man, Mike Ayers, had a 48-48-96 and Mike Vaughan carded 49-45-94 in the fifth position. Mark Frericks, playing only against Arlington in the sixth position, shot a 48-46-93 for the day.

Adkins and Heiskell were the only two Tigers to score. Adkins got three points against Washington and Heiskell scored one against the Blue Lions.

Moffitt was low scorer for the day with a one under par 71. Number two man, Cardil, shot a 37-40-77 for second low honors while number three man, Carson, had a 78. Dennis, Arlington's fourth man, shot an 86 for the day and Papa shot 42-39-81. Sixth man, Highsmith, scored 43-44-87.

Washington C.H. was led by Gary Mount, who shot a 38-42-80 for the day. Ed Heath had an 86, Ron Schneider an 85, Eddie Kellough had an 80, and Dave Darif shot an 88.

The weather was perfect for Circleville's first match of the season.

The Tigers' next match is today with Chillicothe on the Cavaliers course at 3:30 p.m. The Red and Black also travel to Upper Lansdowne Friday for a match with Teays Valley.

Both were loosey goosey with those bats."

The Mets also supplied San Diego with a winning pitcher—Dick Selma, who hurled a five hitter, struck out 12 and had two of the Padres' four hits.

San Diego didn't even have a hit until Ed Spiezio homered with one out in the fifth to tie the game 1-1. The following inning, Wilson hit Roberto Pena with a pitch and one out later Olle Brown doubled him home before the crowd of 23,370 in San Diego.

"We're not such a bad ball club," Selma said. "We've got better hitting than the Mets ever had."

To which Brown added, chuckling, "we might go undefeated."

In Chicago, Willie Smith's two-run pinch homer brought the Cubs victory in the 11th inning, but it was effervescent Ernie Banks who got them there far.

Ageless Ernie, 38 years young, stroked the 475th and 476th homers of his 17-year career for Chicago's first five runs, outdueling rookie Don Money of the Phillies, who hit his first two homers for four runs, the second with two on in the ninth. It was Money who doubled in another run to put the Phillies briefly ahead in the 11th.

500 Trout Caught At Hargus Lake

Over 500 trout were caught last Saturday at Hargus Lake according to Dick Redman, secretary of the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn.

Redman estimated that 90 percent of the 1,785 persons at the lake were there for the trout fishing derby.

Some fishermen caught as many as 13 trout and one caught four tagged trout. Trophies were given to the first ten tagged trout caught.

The largest trout was 15 1/4 inches long and weighed about 1 1/2 pounds. Trout were taken on worms, cheese and artificial flies.

Arlene Lawless, Grove City, caught the largest trout. John Wolverton, Columbus and Raymond Tippet, Reynoldsburg, caught the most trout.

Trophies were presented to Bill Rhodes Jr., Johnstown; Arlene Lawless, Grove City; Mary K. Lawless, Grove City; Kent Gray, Columbus; Randy Borton, Columbus; Tom Stewart, Columbus; Jeff Thompson, Circleville; Randy Brooks, Circleville; Lowell Hammond, Chillicothe; Mike Jordan, Obetz.

AL Expansion Clubs Both Winners

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Early or late, expansion is great and the American League's two new clubs used opposing formulas Tuesday to win their opening games by identical scores.

The Seattle Pilots struck early, erupting for four runs in the first inning and holding off the California Angels 4-3 in a night game at Anaheim. The Kansas

City Royals scored on Joe Keough's bases-loaded single in the 12th and nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3.

In another night contest, Oakland whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-2, while world champion Detroit trimmed Cleveland 6-2 and Boston edged Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings during the afternoon. The New York Yankees and Washington were not scheduled.

Manager Joe Schultz of the Pilots, asked for comment on the surprising expansion victories, said, "It goes to show the owners did their job" by making some good players available. Seattle's Tommy Harper led off against Jim McGlothlin with a double and Mike Hegan homered. Tommy Davis' single, a hit batsman, a walk and Gerry McNertney's single added two more runs.

The Angels scored in the second on three singles, on Jim Fregosi's homer in the fifth and on two walks, a sacrifice and an infield out in the ninth.

But they ran themselves out of a possible big inning in the second. Aurelio Rodriguez and Tom Satriano opened with hits. Hegan crashed into the right field wall and was knocked cold trying to catch Bobby Knoop's drive, but Knoop passed Satriano on the base paths and was called out. Hegan suffered a sprained left wrist and bruised hip.

The Royals tied Minnesota 3-3 with two runs in the bottom of the sixth but couldn't win it until the 12th before 17,688 fans who welcomed baseball back to Kansas City after a one-year absence.

Harmon Killebrew's error opened the door for two unearned runs in the sixth. Joe

Foy began the winning rally in the 12th with a one-out infield hit and a passed ball and two intentional walks around a wild pitch filled the bases.

Rookie Manager Billy Martin pulled in his outfield but Keough drilled the ball over right fielder Tony Oliva's head. Lou Piniella, acquired last week from Seattle, paced the Royals with a double and three singles. Graig Nettles homered for the Twins.

"I'd have to say this is my biggest thrill as a manager," said Kansas City's Joe Gordon. "The big thrill I got out of it was the way the guys were all pulling for each other. I'll tell you this—I'd have been real disappointed if we'd lost. The guys had battled so hard all day."

Denny McLain held Cleveland to three hits and Al Kaline walked to a two-run homer as Detroit opened defense of its 1968 flag. McLain, who was treated Monday for an inflamed pitching shoulder, blanked the Indians over the last seven innings after yielding a homer to Larry Brown in the first and another run in the second.

Norm Cash's two-run double off Luis Tiant tied the game in the third and Kaline connected two innings later. A record Detroit opening day crowd of 53,572 was on hand.

Oaks Down ABA Rockets

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warren Armstrong, a 6-foot-2 backcourtner, used to pop them in for Wichita State in his college career.

He showed the Denver Rockets his skills in scoring 42 points to lead Oakland to a 121-99 road victory in the American Basketball Association playoffs Tuesday night. The victory gave the Oaks a 2-1 lead in their best-of-7 Western Division semifinal playoffs.

Kentucky also scored on the road to take a 1-0 lead over Indiana in their Eastern Division semifinal playoffs. The Colonels, led by Darel Carrier's 40 points, beat the Pacers 128-115 at Indianapolis.

Armstrong also grabbed 15 rebounds in helping the Oaks down the Rockets in a rough game. Denver's Byron Beck and Oakland's Ira Harge got in a fight during the first half, although neither was ejected.

Among Carrier's 40 points were five 3-point baskets and 13 of 16 free throws.

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Piqua (Ohio) Central High School basketball Coach Bill Kennon has been hired as assistant coach at Tennessee Tech.

Kennon, 34, has compiled an 80-29 record and won three league titles during his five years at the Ohio school. At Tech, he will assist new basketball Coach Connie Inman, who was a classmate of his at Miami University of Ohio.

Celts Meet N.Y. Knicks; Seek 2nd Win

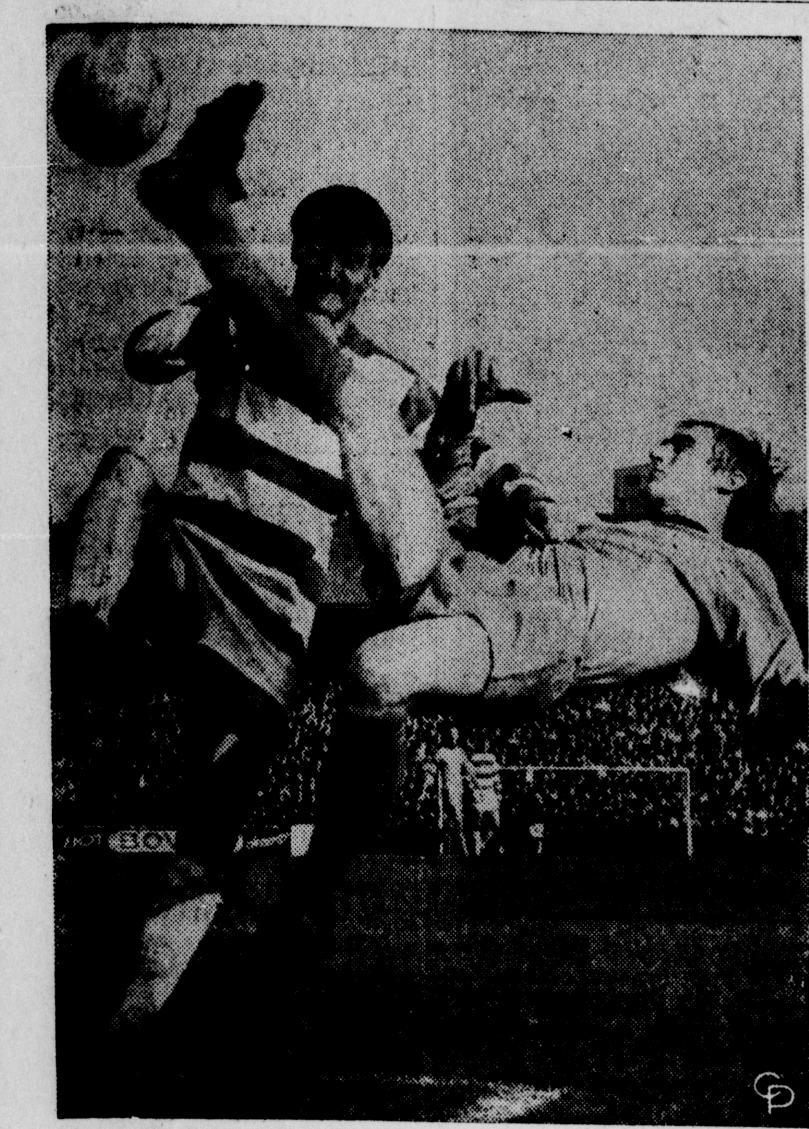

BOSTON (AP) — The creaking Boston Celtics, playing the kind of basketball most people thought they no longer could, meet the New York Knicks tonight at Boston Garden in their second game of the National Basketball Association semifinals.

The elderly Celtics, defending NBA champions, have been scampers since the playoffs began.

In the Eastern Division semifinals, Boston defeated Philadelphia four games to one, and then beat the Knicks in New York Sunday 108-100 in the opener of the best of 7 division finals.

The Celtics will be trying to use the home court advantage they now hold over New York. "If we don't win Wednesday night, then we throw everything away," said Celtics Capt. John Havlicek. "It would be just like starting all over again."

For the Celtics to keep winning, they will have to continue their strong defensive play. In Sunday's game, Player-Coach Bill Russell was the key man in Boston's defense, as usual, but had good support, especially from his forwards.

CHS Thinclads Overpower MTHS In Dual Meet

The Circleville High School track team swept to a 93-34 win over visiting Miami Trace Tuesday, winning all but the 100 and 220 yard dash events.

Will Bost set a new school record in the broad jump with an effort of 21 feet 10 1/2 inches. Bost also won the 120 yard high hurdles, placed third in the 180 yard low hurdles and anchored the winning 880 yard relay team.

Jack Boyer won both weight events. The big senior put the shot 42 feet 7 1/2 inches and heaved the discus 124 feet 7 1/2 inches.

Dan Spradlin's 5-foot 6-inch effort in the high jump was good for first place. Spradlin was third in the high hurdles and second in the low hurdles.

JIM Samuel tied for first in the pole vault and ran the third leg of the 880-yard relay team. Mel Smith paced off the two mile in 10:41.4 to win that event.

Phil Pike was first in the mile, winning the race in 4:55.5, and came back to place second in the 880-yard run behind Bill McGowan who had a time of 2:11.

Dave Hopkins was all alone as he crossed the finish line in the 440, winning the race easily in 53.9. Dick Walters won the 180 yard low hurdles in 22.9 and was second in the highs.

Circleville swept all three places in five events — the hurdle races, the two mile, the 880 and the 440.

Tomorrow Circleville travels to Chillicothe for a dual meet. Chillicothe has won 14 consecutive home dual meets over a two year period.

Saturday the Tiger thinclads race at the Newark Invitational.

Man Starts Mini-March To Back Legislation

By JOHN C. PURCELL
Herald Staff Writer

Have you ever been frustrated by a bureaucracy? Did you ever want to get a few things changed that you thought should be corrected?

Maybe you wrote a letter to your congressman or perhaps even sent him a telegram. Then again you might have let the whole matter pass by just saying to a friend "there should be something to do."

Central Wilson decided to do a little more than complain. He started his own mini-march from Cleveland to Washington D. C. and is now on his way back to Cleveland to dramatize what he feels is an immediate need for Congress to pass a federal workman's compensation law, raise social security and enact a few other laws the 64-year-old hiker feels strongly about.

Wilson came through Circleville Tuesday pulling his 600-pound trailer which converts into a "motel room" at night.

"I AM trying to let people know what's happening in this country and get them to have their congressman do something about it" stated the bewhiskered man as he handed out petitions to be sent to area congressional representatives.

The story behind Wilson's trek to Washington began in July 1966 while he was a truck driver delivering onions in Cleveland. He was in the trailer with his onions when they began to spill into the street. He rolled out with the onions right into the street and landed on his head.

He was ordered to go to the trucking company office to meet with a business agent for the Teamsters Union. He had been a member of that union since 1948.

"When I got there I was told that I would have to wait for six days before I could be treated at the Cleveland Clinic if the company was to pick up the bill" he stated.

He couldn't wait that long, he says, so he went to his own physician. He was then admitted to a hospital where subsequent operations were performed on his head, face bones and abdomen. The operations were performed by Dr. Steven Sheppard brother of

Dr. Samuel Sheppard, he says proudly.

Following his stay in the hospital he filed compensation papers with the company, he says, but they were ignored.

THIS riled him but what has riled him even more is his belief that the union has now deserted him and doesn't want him to work another year and a half so he can receive his 20-year-union retirement.

To press his views that he was being cheated and that the union should correct its mistake and the government prevent such things from happening to others he began his two-month long march.

In Aug. 1967 he arrived in Washington D. C. to see if he could get support for a federal compensation law. He grew a beard and rode a unicycle in front of the White House to dramatize what he considers to be a great need.

While in Washington he sent letters to his congressman and the President. Since that time he has sent several letters to President Nixon urging him to "correct" compensation and pension plans.

He finally received 20 weeks compensation from the Ohio Compensation Commission but a third of it went for attorney's fees.

For the last year or so he has been "gathering support from working people in Virginia and West Virginia." About three weeks ago he set off from Fayette County W. Virginia with his hand-pulled trailer to walk back to Cleveland to tilt with Teamster's Union officials again.

HE claims that he is still on the "official time card" at the freight lines where he works and hasn't been off the payroll since July 1966. He wants his back wages.

"I am fit to return now" he says and few will disagree with the short powerfully built man who has pulled his two-wheel trailer through some of the roughest terrain in the eastern United States.

His secret, he says, is the ability to "generate SINO in my blood which I did before I started for Washington."

What is SINO? He is not telling. It is his secret he stated, and when he has perfected it, he will release it to the world. Not until.

All he has right now is his SINO, his trailer, a $118 a month Social Security check and donations from well-wishers along his way. Hopefully that will be all he needs to get back to Cleveland.

Until that time he is storing his trailer, complete with slogans and unicycle, at the Circleville Police Department until he has had a chance to hike to Columbus to talk with officials there.

"Maybe someday I'll get what I'm deserving," he said.

2nd National Offers New Credit Service

Pickaway County residents will soon be offered the "Master Charge" credit card, according to Durward Dowden, president of The Second National Bank.

The "Master Charge" credit card, to be made available to local families and businesses, is the world's largest credit cards association.

Dowden states, "Our bank will have the one credit card that will provide a new high in convenience for our shopper customers. It will enable cardholders to shop in thousands of establishments right around home, and in more than 300,000 across the country, without the need to carry cash.

"Master Charge," with its national and international interchange privileges, through association with Interbank, is the best in the field."

He further noted that "this new card will enable our customers to maintain a much closer control of expenditures, and will become a valuable aid in family budgeting. The one card will do the job of the many that most people now carry, which will be a tremendous help in bill paying. It will also prove invaluable to the shopper who wants to take advantage of special sales now and be billed later."

Applications are now being accepted by the Second National Bank for the new Master Charge Card.

The Second National Bank is an affiliate of BancOhio Corporation, a 1.3 billion dollar bank holding company, with 88 offices in 22 central Ohio counties.

The decision to move into this new area of consumer credit was made after a thorough study of the many charge cards offered by banks and other credit organizations throughout the country.

Principals Attack Views Of Minority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals spoke out today against "a small minority of youth and community groups" that seek to impose their own code on schools and students.

"These groups bypass normal processes, ignore procedures for change and violate the right of the majority," the 1,400-member association said in a policy statement.

2 Californias Being Urged

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A bill to divide California in two was introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

"For all practical purposes right now we have two states with one governor and one legislature," said the sponsor, Sen. Richard J. Dolwig. Virtually every department has offices in both Northern and Southern California.

A similar bill passed the Senate in 1965 but was killed in an Assembly committee.

One opponent is Gary Bromley, 33, a special police officer in Los Angeles.

"I don't think California should be divided. There are not enough people in this state with enough brains to run it as it is, let alone having to run two," he said.

Far-Out Symphony Planned Complete With 'Breakup'

DENVER (AP)—A far-out symphony in which musicians break pop bottles and the audience directs the orchestra opens here May 1.

Called "If Music Be," the four-movement symphony is by Harold Farberman, a sometime composer who has conducted the Denver Symphony on occasion. The work was created, Farberman said, to spur interest in symphonic music among high school audiences.

"It's a rock-pop jazz suite with film and audience," Far-

berman explained during a wild rehearsal. "I'm not sure myself what it will sound like in the end."

Farberman uses a rock group and the full orchestra for the first movement, which he calls "If Music Be Sound to Move the Soul." The rock combo continues in the second movement and in the third, jazz organist Don Lewis will join the orchestra. The third movement is entitled "If Music Be Fierce, Play On."

It's in the last movement that things reach high pitch.

"This section is made up of bits and pieces of the previous movements," Farberman said.

The "orchestration" calls for the audience to be divided into three parts with an assistant conductor in charge of each. A majority show of hands by any of the sections will direct the corresponding part of the orchestra to play something—anything—no matter what the other two are playing.

During the last movement, musicians will smash pop bottles for effect and an avant-garde film, by New York producer Ed Emshwiller, will be projected at the back of the orchestra.

"Frankly," a spokesman for the Denver Symphony said, "the whole thing may bomb out. If it doesn't, it's going to be the most fantastic thing ever heard."

Man Prepares His Own Funeral, Commits Suicide

DENVER (AP)—With grim, meticulous care Allen M. Michelson planned his funeral. Tuesday he was found dead in a Denver apartment, victim of what police said was an apparent suicide.

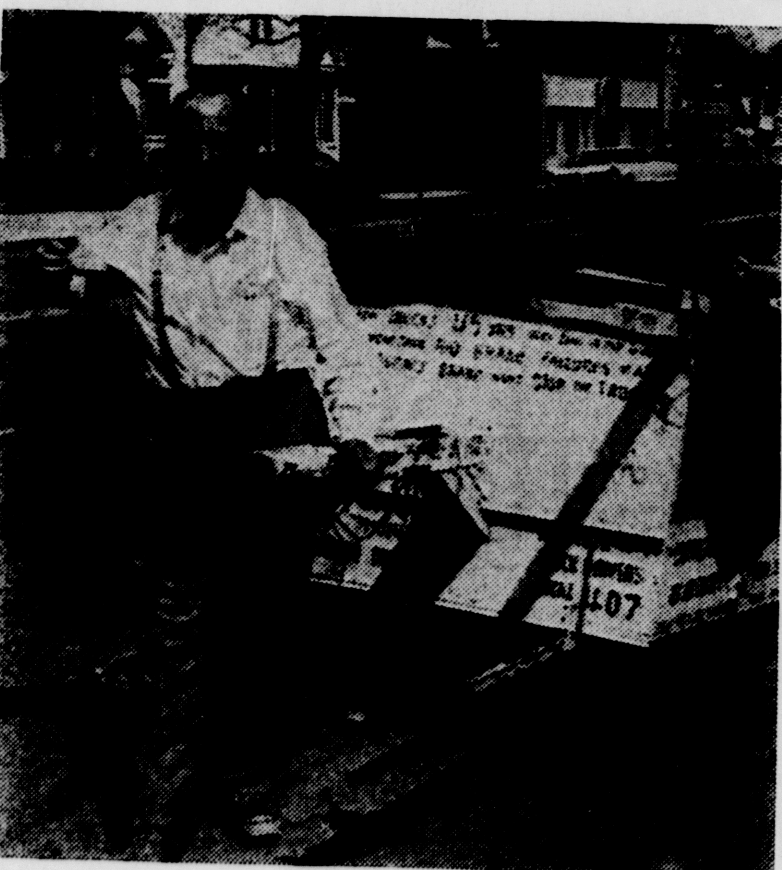

Michelson, 60, of El Paso, Tex., came to Denver twice in the past six months to arrange for his burial. Police said he had paid cash for a funeral and burial policy, sending copies to his sister in Miami and keeping one.
